

Local ERB Asks For a $150,000 Appropriation To Carry On Work Here

Mayor Heischman Recommends That Aldermen Grant Request By Authorizing A Bond Sale To Raise the Amount Needed.

IN COMMITTEE

Request Considered at Special Meeting and Referred to Committee—Report Tuesday.

In order to carry on home and work relief in Kingston for the balance of the year the sum of $150,000 is needed to be appropriated by the city, and Tuesday evening the Common Council met in special session at the city hall to consider the request of the local emergency relief bureau and the recommendation of Mayor C. J. Heischman that the sum needed be raised by a bond sale. The mayor also recommended that as it would take some time to hold the bond sale and as the ERB was without funds that the borrowing of $75,000 in short term certificates to be paid out of the proceeds from the bond sale be authorized. The request was referred to the laws and rules committee and the finance, ways and means committee with instructions to report back at the regular meeting of the council next Tuesday evening. The council also dedicated certain land on the City Home property for street purposes. This land is to be used as part of the East Chester street by-pass.

ERB Explains Need
The communication from the local emergency relief bureau read at the council meeting follows:

Included in the 1935 budget which your honorable body adopted was $111,558.16 for Home and Work Relief. An analysis of the expenditures of the Emergency Relief Bureau indicates that for the months of January, February and March the city's share of relief expenses was $19,947.92 in excess of the anticipated amount as explained in the following table:

Budget estimate for this quarter	Total City's Share
1935 - $201,040.41	$71,418.09
Actual expenditures 209,264.00	$1,366.01

Over-expended $ 8,223.59 $19,947.92

The $8,223.59 over-expended is accounted for partly by projects such as the Woodstock artists projects which are 100 per cent reimbursable.

The excess of the city's share over the budget estimate, amounting to $19,947.92, was brought about by the unprecedented and unexpected expenditures for Home Relief. You will recall that an effort was made by our local administration to increase our work relief allotment but that we were limited by the state administration, as were other communities in the state, and were by necessity compelled to increase the Home Relief cases. On April 1, for instance, we had 834 home relief cases, 238 straight work relief cases and 356 work relief cases which were supplemented by home relief. This necessitated less work relief and more home relief expenditures than the budget was made up, and this operated to increase the city's share of relief costs for the following reasons: Work Relief costs are reimbursed 75 per cent, all of which goes back in the relief fund. On the other hand while Home Relief costs are also reimbursed 75 per cent under the State Law, 40 per cent must be credited to the general fund and only 25 per cent goes back in the home relief fund. So that on all home relief expenditures the Emergency Relief Bureau gets back only 25 per cent instead of 75 per cent.

We have had a statement of our operations prepared by Ronder & Ronder, certified public accountants, and we attach it hereto. This shows that on April 1, the Emergency Relief Bureau had a balance of $20,620.71 left of the original appropriation of $111,558.16, after taking credit for refunds receivable on bills paid for which claims have been submitted and refunds to be receivable on claims to be submitted on bills contracted and not yet paid. The Emergency Relief Bureau pays all home and work relief bills, except a 75 per cent advance on work relief payrolls. These bills are then submitted for approval to the State TERA in New York. When finally approved there, they are forwarded for payment to the state comptroller in Albany, who finally sends a check to the city treasurer for the state's share of the relief costs. This procedure necessarily requires the lapse of considerable time before the total amount of refunds due are in our hands to pay bills. From the attached report of Ronder & Ronder you will notice that as of April 1 we had coming in refunds the sum of $62,375.54 in claims already submitted and to be submitted.

Inasmuch as the cash appropriation of $111,558.16 in the 1935 city budget was not in this date fully expended, we respectfully request your honorable body to appropriate

Rural Division Set Up As Part of Relief Works

Washington, May 1 (AP).—Establishment by executive order of the rural re-settlement division to aid in administering the $4,000,000 works-relief program was announced today by President Roosevelt.

This division, charged with moving people from unprofitable communities to places where they can live under better conditions, is headed by Rexford G. Tugwell, under secretary of agriculture. Mr. Roosevelt also said at his press conference he had asked Morris Llewellyn Cooke of Philadelphia to set up the rural electrification division.

Cooke is a member of the natural resources board and an authority on power. He had planned to go to Europe, but agreed to establish the division before making the trip.

Discussing the works program, Mr. Roosevelt explained he expected to abide by a rule of spending money by July 1, 1936. Meanwhile, other executive orders were awaited before the full program could start functioning.

Three-Point Program Drifted to Provide "White Collar" Work

Washington, May 1 (AP).—A three-point program was drafted today in what work-relief officials declared would be an attempt to provide "suitable" employment for a large percentage of 750,000 "white collar" people now on federal relief.

The officials said that this program, revolving around research, education and recreation activities, would be one of the most important features of the $4,000,000,000 works drive. Two hundred thousand professional, clerical and other people not considered fitted for construction labor already are on work relief under Relief Administrator Harry L. Hopkins. The research-education-recreation activities are expected to absorb at least double that number under the new program, officials said.

Almost every government bureau has drafted tentative plans to attempt to use this supply of educated and skilled labor. In addition to those who are slated to be employed as time-keepers, supervisors, engineers, and planners for construction projects, a large number of censuses and research projects have been proposed by federal agencies.

Present handicraft teaching—including the "boondoggling" which recently attracted much criticism in New York—is declared capable of immediate expansion. So are classes in adult education and employment of nurses for public health.

Existing government agencies, however, will not absorb a large number of scholars, actors, musicians, and artists. Whether a separate agency will supervise their activities, or they will continue under the relief administration, President Roosevelt has not made known.

Defending the white collar activities in New York city, Hopkins recently said the $300,000,000 authorized under the work relief act would be one of the most important means of providing employment in the great cities. The relief population is concentrated in these cities and they also contain the largest proportion of white collar people.

In New York city they make up one-fourth the relief population, officials said.

WINNE COMPANY AWARDED VERDICT BY JURY HERE

Tuesday evening a night session of city court was held at the city hall before Judge Culliton and a jury in the actions brought by the L. S. Winne Company on Wall street against Van Kleef Motor and Garage, and Winne Company against Samuel J. Van Kleef. Both actions were tried together. They were brought to recover for goods and merchandise sold and delivered. The jury at the close of the evidence brought in a verdict in favor of the Winne Company for the amount sued for, which was slightly over $250. Elmer H. Nathan appeared for the Winne Company and Roger H. Loughran for Van Kleef.

Treasury Receipts

Washington, May 1 (AP).—The report of the treasury on April 29 was: Receipts $182,884,820.90; expenditures $244,808,363.52; balance $1,552,911,490.66. Customs receipts for the fiscal year (since July 1) $2,666,754,255.92; expenditures $5,429,129,822.42 (including $2,858,549,625.23 of emergency expenditures); excess of expenditures $2,762,375,566.50; gross debt $2,474,589,988.22, a decrease of $5,341,285.50 over the previous day. Gold assets $5,706,711,232.62.

Berlin, May 1.—Reichsfuehrer Hitler told more than a million persons gathered at his feet in Tempelhof Airdrome today that Germany desires only peace with other nations.

"Just as we restored peace within Germany," he said, "we want peace abroad, because only then can our domestic works be a success."

It was a cold stormy day. The listening multitudes were lashed by a thunderstorm, but Hitler, bare-headed, stood high above them on a rostrum and pleaded for a closer unity of the nation. His voice was husky but easy to understand as he spoke with solemnity through microphones which carried his voice to every section of the Reich.

"May other nations understand," said Hitler, "that the Germany of today is not the Germany of yesterday. Therefore, fellow citizens, I ask you to bind faster the band of the community. Do not forget that you are members of one people as ordained by God."

The Reichsfuehrer proclaimed that the German nation had now become a new people.

"We are a people without raw materials, without colonies, without capital, without foreign bank deposits," he said. "We know nothing but sacrifices, small wages and high taxes, but we do have one thing, namely, our German people."

"We, therefore, tell other countries: 'Don't fear we want anything from you. We are proud enough to say that the highest thing we have is something you could not give us if you would, namely, our people.'"

As leader of this people, I know of no more precious task than to make Germany happy again. Even though you foreign nations may offer me whole continents, I would rather be the poorest citizen here.

The Great Fulfillment
"With this people we will be able to fulfill the great task ahead. You may wonder why on a day like this in such bad weather you are, nevertheless, called together. The purpose is symbolically to show that we are not divided into city and country. Into workers, farmers and tradesmen, artisans and students, but that we are members of one people united in the common duty to fulfill our task in the world with such strength and talent, as Almighty God gave us."

"We were a people that was impatient, because we were dissatisfied. That made us play ball with foreign nations. Small states could cast humiliation upon us and deprive our citizens of their rights. Our economic life was ruined. All that once had seemed good had become bad."

"But now we have become a new people. Great ages always result from strong leadership, but the best of leadership must fail if there is not behind a united, strong people. Our strength lies not in tanks, cannon and marching battalions, but in the unity of our people and its idealistic faith."

In 1913 we started as a small group declared as idealistic fanatics. Our critics are proven to have been wrong. Historically, visible success always proves the correctness of theories.

One Visible Truth
"No one can deny that there are visible one people and one idea. All we see today would be impossible if Germany had not experienced an inner transformation. That we could unify our people is the greatest accomplishment of this country as far as Germany is concerned and will outlast everything else."

"We shall not rest until we give to the last German his daily bread. Remember, May 1 is a day of decision against the difficulties which still are to be overcome. What we want is not war, not unrest."

"Just as we restored peace within Germany, we want peace abroad, because only then can our domestic works be a success. Many other nations understand that the Germany of today is not the Germany of yesterday."

"Therefore, fellow citizens, I ask you to bind faster the band of the community. Do not forget that you are members of one people as ordained by God. Demonstrate to the world your faith in your people and state. My will must be your confession. I serve my people with my life."

A heavy thunderstorm accompanied the exercises at the airdrome. Der Fuehrer stood bare-headed, speaking from a high rostrum.

Central Business Men Strongly Opposed To Depressing Broadway

Association Condemns In the Strongest Terms Any Proposition For Crossing Elimination That Provides for Depressing.

REVIEWS HISTORY

Attorney Cashin Gives Review of the History of the Movement To Eliminate the Crossing.

That the merchants and business men of central Broadway, as represented in the Central Business Men's Association, have no use, or even less than that, for the plan to depress Broadway in order to eliminate the West Shore Railroad crossing, was made very evident at the special meeting of the Association held at the Municipal Auditorium Tuesday night.

The subject was recently brought to the fore once more when the Public Service Commission issued an order directing the New York Central Railroad to produce a plan, by June 1, providing for the elimination of the crossing by depressing the street.

Following a short business meeting, during which contributions were made to the convention committee of the city and to the Y. M. C. A., William O'Reilly, president of the Association, called on Attorney John Cashin to explain the matter of crossing elimination and the present status of the plan.

Mr. Cashin gave a comprehensive review of the history of the movement to eliminate the Broadway West Shore crossing. He said that there was much discussion of the question back in the days of Mayor Canfield's administration and various plans to accomplish the end sought were submitted.

Finally, said Mr. Cashin, on December 27, 1928, the Public Service Commission entered an order providing for the elimination of the crossing in accordance with a certain plan, which plan called for the depressing of Broadway, carrying the street under the railroad tracks.

This action on the part of the Public Service Commission created a great stir. It was stated, and action against it was taken both by the city and county. The Common Council, by resolution, directed the corporation counsel to appear before the Public Service Commission and seek to secure a modification of the order. The supervisors also directed the county attorney to cooperate with the city toward the same end and if possible it was planned to get an order that would provide for the elimination of all the West Shore Crossings in the city.

Reviews the Movement
Mr. Cashin said that at the time discussion was rife over the question the railroad claimed that it would cost five or six millions of dollars to eliminate all the crossing by depressing tracks as such action would involve changing tracks, yards, relocating buildings and adjusting connections with the U. & D.

Apparently, said Mr. Cashin, there were arguments in the case previous to March, 1929, for on March 14, 1929, the Public Service Commission issued an order confirming the stand previously taken. So far as he knew, said the speaker, no appeal from this order had ever been made, either on the part of the city or the county and the matter seemed to have remained dead until this spring, when the Public Service Commission got busy and an order to show cause was issued against the New York Central Railroad. The situation now, said Mr. Cashin, is that the Railroad Company, on or before June 1, must submit a general plan for the elimination of the crossing. It was his opinion that the plan to be submitted must be in accordance with the order of December 27, 1928, which provided for the depressing of Broadway.

Seligman Oppenheimer brought up the question as to just what the plan involved in the 1928 order provided. He said that during the Canfield administration a plan had been submitted which involved the purchase of an additional 25 feet of land along the west side of Broadway to

Hurley's Iron Bridge Taken From Foundation Tuesday To End Menace

Many People Used Bridge When Walking Across Creek and Authorities Feared Fatalities Due to Poor Planking.

BUILT IN 1888.

Structure Will Be Cut By Torches and Will Be Sold For Junk in the Near Future.

The old iron bridge which since 1888 has spanned the Esopus creek at Hurley is no more. On Tuesday afternoon, with clock-like precision, this ancient structure was hauled from one end of its foundation and dropped into the creek from where it will be removed in sections and scrapped. Its usefulness ceased some time ago when the county of Ulster constructed a modern structure just down stream from the old lenticular-truss structure which had outlived its usefulness and had become so dangerous as to be condemned.

Favored Old Bridge.

Since the new bridge was opened the old span remained barred off from use but many people continued to walk across the bridge and since the planking had become dangerous it was deemed best to remove the structure before some serious accident happened. The bridge was of light steel construction with plank flooring and was known as a one way bridge. In the days of horses and carriages the bridge was sufficient to carry traffic but with the advent of heavy cars and trucks it was a menace and had to be replaced by a wide and stronger structure.

When the new bridge was opened it was expected some junk firm would buy the iron and remove it but the old span 160 feet in length proved to be a costly one to tear down and firms dealing in junk did not deem it wise to undertake the job in view of the high cost of compensation insurance which would be involved and the small profit which could be realized from the metal so the old bridge remained in position.

Loughran's Plan

Recently it became known that people were still walking across the bridge and rather than permit it to remain and cause injury to someone County Superintendent of Highways James F. Loughran began to plan a way to remove it in an economical manner. To remove it piece by piece as it stood on its high abutments would require much falsework being erected and considerable cost and it remained for Eugene Carle, expert rigger in the employ of the highway department to solve the problem. Carle, who in addition to being a very expert rigger is also a diver of ability, devised a method of hauling one end of the 25 ton structure off the abutment at the west end of the bridge and allowing it to drop into the creek where it may be easily cut in pieces with torches and hauled away.

Blocks and Tackle

By a system of blocks and tackle and various pieces of rigging, he planned to haul the entire bridge structure about two feet toward the east so the west end would drop down to the creek. Two runners were placed at the east end and these were thoroughly greased in the manner used in launching a ship. Steel cables were attached to the bridge to anchor it in position so that in dropping it would not tip and collapse against the new bridge. Then one of the winches of the county truck was attached to the cable and with the truck securely blocked to prevent its being pulled back, Carle gave the word to haul away.

With considerable groaning at first and then a few snapping sounds the bridge was moved inch by inch. Once it was on the greased runners it moved rapidly and with a crash settled to the creek below, exactly in the position it had been anticipated it would fall. Once the 160 foot long span was safe on the bottom Carle and his assistants heaved a sigh of relief as residents of the neighborhood congratulated them on their work and on the better appearance of that section of Hurley.

Many Witnesses

The fall of the bridge was witnessed by many people in the neighborhood who speculated as to whether the job could be done or not with the equipment used. Prior to attempting to haul the bridge, stress and strain on cables had been figured and the degree of leverage needed on the tackle had been computed by Mr. Loughran and Mr. Carle and no difficulty was expected. Mr. Loughran was present to make a motion picture film on the job and William Warren, who lives on the Mountain Road in Hurley, was also present to make snaps of the work. Mr. Warren estimated that in his lifetime he had crossed the bridge at least 25,000 times as its passing was of interest to him.

Steel Tablet

On either end of the bridge was a steel tablet stating that the bridge had been erected in 1888. At that time Rufus Switzer was supervisor of the town of Hurley, Cornelius P. Mond was commissioner, Charles Mason was clerk, and the three justices comprising the other members of the town board were Benjamin Elmsdorf, O. F. France and J. A. Elmsdorf. The tablets bore the names of the members of the town

The Merry Month of May Comes on Wings of Snow

May, a traditionally mild month, entered the county on wings of snow borne by lashing winds. The mountain section was visited by a snowfall last evening which left the western slopes of the Catskills covered with a six-inch blanket. Residents of Margaretville also reported unseasonable snow. Temperatures dropped to around 35 degrees.

The mellow weather of the week-end had caused fishermen to rejoice in the hopes that the tardy trout season might begin, but today's weather brought expressions of gloom. The fishermen who came to the mountains at the beginning of the trout fishing season on April 1, remained for two weeks and then departed, except for a few intrepid sportsmen who love fishing under any conditions.

No skiing parties were reported over the week-end and the higher peaks, such as Slide and Wittenberg, seemed from a distance to have lost the drifts which made skiing possible as late as Easter. Tuesday's rain, however, did much to advance the lawns and trees in the city. Blossoms of cherry and pear trees are in wide evidence. Several hardy magnolias about town help Mr. Public to believe that warm weather may soon come to stay.

MacDonald Says His Opinion Gives a Slant On Anglo-Nazi Affair

London, May 1 (AP).—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald declared in the House of Commons today that an article he wrote last week lambasting Germany reflected the opinion of the British government.

The article was printed in the official news letter of the Labor party and especially denounced Germany for its rearmament in the air. MacDonald said he personally considered that its publication was in the public interest.

MacDonald's statement came shortly after Sir Bolton Eyres Monsell, first lord of the admiralty, had told the House that Germany would have the first submarine since the World War ready for action within six months.

In explanation of his article, which was received with unfriendly comments in Germany, the prime minister said:

"The government's views on the effect of Germany's recent action as regards military planes, both as to methods and amounts, has been expressed at Stresa and Geneva and indicated in the Commons in speeches both by the foreign secretary and myself. The article is substantially on the lines of those statements and does represent the views of the government."

Replying to a series of questions in which the legislators sought further enlightenment as to Germany's submarine program, Sir Bolton said: "The British naval attack in Berlin was informed April 26 by the German authorities that an order to manufacture machinery, armaments, etc., for 12-250-ton submarines was given at Christmas and an order to construct hulls and assemble the component parts was given about the middle of April."

"He also was informed that as a result of extensive preparations which had been made the first submarine would probably be completed within six months."

In answer to a question from a Labor party member, Sir Bolton said he could not confirm reports that Germany was building U-boats, some of more than 1,000 tons, more than a year ago.

The first lord said he had no information that the German submarine school at Kiel had reopened.

The questions posed in the House concerning submarines and Germany's air force reflected a growing concern by the members of Parliament over Germany's rearmament. David Kirkwood, Labor member from Glasgow, suggested that "if the British government is in earnest" German submarine construction could be halted, because Great Britain controls 30 per cent of the world nickel supply and Germany has neither copper nor tin. Sir Bolton did not reply to this suggestion.

2 Millions for Improvements

Washington, May 1 (AP).—The veterans administration is planning to spend $2,515,559 for improvements to New York state veterans hospitals at Bath, Canandaigua and Batavia. A program outlined in a report last night calls for a new hospital at Bath, for which $600,000 already is available, and three new buildings with a total of 475 beds at Canandaigua.

In the drop of the bridge one of the tablets was broken but the other remained intact.

A portion of the abutments will be removed to remove the ugly scar on the creek bank and the iron structure will be cut by torches into smaller sections and hauled away to be sold for junk.

Herd Of Wild Elk In Western New York

Dalton, N. Y., May 1 (P).—After a lapse of more than a century there is a herd of wild elk running in western New York woods.

While the animals live under natural conditions and have the freedom of the fields, they really are in semi-captivity for they are on the 260-acre estate of Basil Spring, in Allegany county, south of Lechworth State Park. The elk, owned by Spring and herded by him and his nephew, Paul Spring, represents a kind of farming-unique in New York state.

Besides being the only one of its kind in this state, it is said to be one of three in the country operated under private auspices. The herd has been on the Spring estate for a year and their breeding is a new experiment for this section of the United States.

There are 16 elk and another herd of 18 deer. By the end of the present month the elk are expected to be increased to about 25 or 28 and the deer to approximately 25. If the experimental breeding of these animals is a success the Spring estate may soon become a refuge and breeding place for animals and birds, which are now in danger of serious depletion or extinction.

The farm is high above sea level and surrounded by abandoned farms and accessible only by rutty, unpaved roads. Much of the surrounding country has reverted to a natural, wild state. The farm itself has deep underbrush, heavy timber, a running stream and patches of swamp and flatlands. Such topography and high altitude is ideal for elk and deer, the Springs assert.

The elk came from North Dakota and the deer from New Hampshire. The farm is specially licensed by the state conservation department and the Springs may slaughter the animals and sell the meat and hides if they wish.

WILL PLANT BLACK CANE TO HELP THE PHEASANTS

St. Paul, (P).—With 7,254 acres in 73 counties under cultivation growing black amber cane marked exclusively for pheasants, there'll be no food famine for the upland game bird in Minnesota next winter.

The project is co-operative between the state game and fish department and more than 5,500 farmers who have contracted for planting cane plots. Seed is furnished free under provision the grain will be cut and shocked for the winter. In spring farmers are privileged to utilize the cane as fodder.

A tall seed-bearing plant of the corn family, black amber cane when shocked furnishes shelter as well as food to the birds. Windrows of cane will weather above normal snows, officials assert, while drooping tassels will provide accessible food. Space inside shocks will furnish shelter.

The Chinese pheasant's inability to cope with rigorous northern winters has been early recognized by game managers. Intense cold, coupled with snow storms, seal the birds' normal providers. Weakened in this manner, pheasants have frozen by thousands throughout the northwest. The plan is costing sportsmen $5,125.

SOVIET TRIES TO CIVILIZE FOR HUNTERS OF ARCTIC

Khabarovsk, U. S. S. R. (P).—The Tungus, tribesmen whom Soviet officials are attempting to civilize in Kolyma province, along the Okhotsk Sea, never wash their teeth and never bathe, but they also never die or sicken. Consequently, Bolshevik teachers believe they can make a worthy tribe out of the northern fur-bearers.

Reindeer supply the Tungus with clothing and most of their food. The old women chew reindeer skins to make them into chamois and it takes a woman three years to chew enough hide for one pair of trousers. Both men wear trousers.

Only 15 per cent of the Tungus can read and write, but motor foods are under construction, schools and hospitals have been opened and new towns are projected to replace the old villages of the wandering reindeer herders.

Sometimes, in the spring, an old man's fancy turns to thoughts of love. But it usually takes the women

LEATHER MANUFACTURERS

"DISCOVER" DOLPHIN SKIN.
Belgrade (P).—A big demand for skin from the stomachs of dolphins for the manufacture of shoes and other leather goods has sprung up here.

This follows a Russian discovery that leather made from it is supple and lasting and dyes well.

Hitherto the dolphin has been considered a nuisance by Dalmatian fishermen around the Adriatic as it was of no use for food, but destroyed the tuna nets. Now high prices are offered for it.

ALL IN A DAY'S WORK

Our attendants at public pay stations never know from one minute to the next what kind of request may be put up to them. For example, an estimable gentleman from out of town, who unfortunately is deaf and dumb, stops in at our pay station in a railroad terminal once a week to ask us to make his hotel reservation.

At first he signified his wish in writing. Now the operators know him and act without instructions. If for some reason he skips a week, they miss him.

Such attention may seem out of the line of duty, but we do not think so. The telephone is a personal service. New York Telephone Company.

J. B. Crandall Dies, Veteran News Editor

New York, May 1 (AP).—Joseph B. Crandall, 60, long news editor of the New York Herald Tribune, died today at his home in Queens. He had been ill of heart disease about two months.

Born in Brooklyn and graduated in 1894 from Colgate University, he started newspaper work on the Philadelphia Press. The next year he came to the New York Sun.

While working for the Sun he attended night law school and with two friends formed the law firm of Crandall, Cook & Bishop. He practiced law for several years, returning to journalism in 1908 on the staff of the old Evening World. In 1910 he was appointed night city editor of the New York Times.

He returned to the Sun and was assistant managing editor from 1912 to 1918, then became night editor and Sunday editor of the American and editor in charge of early editions of the Journal.

He was ill for a year and returned to the Times for a short while before joining the Herald Tribune in August, 1928.

Crandall's widow, a son and a daughter, and three brothers and two sisters survive.

Dr. Graves Pleads For Central Schools

Albany, N. Y., May 1 (AP).—Dr. Frank P. Graves, State Commissioner of Education, today urged trustees and patrons of the state's common school districts to consider merging scattered rural schools into central district organizations.

"I hope," Dr. Graves said in a letter, "that you will look beyond your local district boundaries and consider the problems common to your entire locality. Only through cooperation, one district with another, can you expect to shape plans of progressive best suited to your community needs."

"Rural parents in increasing numbers are finding that central district organization meets the educational needs of their several communities in a satisfactory manner. You may well investigate what the central district plan has to offer in your particular situation."

The commissioner added that in some small districts the educational needs of pupils are better served by contracting for their instruction in some school outside the district.

Capes Explained New Charter Provisions

Several of the members of the school board today having expressed a desire to ask questions in regard to the provisions of the proposed new city charter, Alderman John Schwab, president of the council, got in touch with Secretary Capes of the State Board of Education, inviting him to meet with the council. Secretary Capes accepted the invitation and following the meeting of the council Tuesday evening an informal meeting was held with Mr. Capes in the mayor's office at the city hall, when Mr. Capes answered questions in regard to the new charter.

It is expected that the question of submitting the charter to a vote of the city will be taken up next Tuesday evening at the regular monthly meeting of the council in the city hall.

Gen. Johnson Saving

Speech of his Career

Philadelphia, May 1 (AP).—General E. Johnson, former NKA administrator, is saving what he calls "the speech of his career" for a bigger audience.

Coming here last night to address the United Businessmen's Association, the erstwhile chief whipcracker of the codes ordered away microphones of two stations and coaxed himself to an extemporaneous talk.

David E. Truesler, association president, disclosed the general was considerably perturbed when informed that a national booklet had not been arranged and at first threatened not to come at all.

The other address at which he is to be heard three or four days will be made in Kentucky on May 7, the general said.

Hit of Glass Betrayed Garage Manager Held Hit and Run Driver

Lawrence, N. Y., May 1 (AP).—A man who police said admitted he was a "hit and run" driver was caught today by a tiny fragment of shattered glass.

By such a narrow thread of evidence police said they had cleared up a baffling accident in which one man was killed and two others critically injured.

The three men were found unconscious along a road here early Monday morning, victims of a "hit and run" driver.

Raymond Combs, 22, of Inwood, died soon after he was found. His brother, Benjamin, 26, and Frank Paine, 24, also of Inwood, are in a serious condition in a Far Rockaway hospital. Paine may die.

At the spot where the men were lying, police found pieces of glass from a shattered windshield and a broken head lamp. By measuring the glass, they learned it was from a 1922 model of a low-priced car and warned officers to watch for such a car.

Yesterday the same kind of car, with a broken windshield and head lamp, turned up at a Far Rockaway garage. The owner, Ralph Lanna, 35, of Lawrence, was questioned.

He told police he had spent Monday night at the home of a friend, Frank Cullito, in Jamaica, and that during the evening his car had been struck by another machine while parked in front of Cullito's house. He showed police pieces of glass in the street.

Detective Frank Kelly said he found a small fragment of glass, barely 1-16th of an inch thick, among the other pieces. The fragment appeared to be from a broken eye glass.

It was discovered, he said, the tiny fragment fitted into the broken lens of the eye glasses Raymond Combs had been wearing.

EMMA WEGANT SCHOOL DANCE WAS A SUCCESS

The dance and entertainment given by the Emma Wegant school on Wednesday evening, April 24, was most successful. A goodly sum was realized for the medical fund of the school.

The following program was most delightfully given by the pupils of the Helen Cashin School of Dancing:

Minstrel Song Dance—Charlotte Norton
Hurricane Dance—Charlotte Norton
Novelty Dance—Charlotte Norton and Charlotte Maxwell

The R.K. Dancing School then contributed the following program most pleasingly:

Musical Dance—By Chorus
Waltz—Fred Bonomi, Ralph Hommel, Marie Gardiner Rhythm—Buck, Dorothy Scheffel
Soft Shoe Dance—

Borcher, Virginia, and Elizabeth Scheffel and Doris Herdewh Rhythm Tap—Chorus
Acrobatic Act—Roger Keough

Following the entertainment dancing was enjoyed for several hours, the music being furnished by the Ambassadors.

The teachers of the school thank the dancing schools which so generously donated their services as well as Sam Antonio, James Chelomo, Millard and Son, First Packing Company and the committee who arranged for the dance.

Garage Manager Held In Death of Small Girl

New York, May 1 (AP).—A 33-year-old garage manager was held today as the confessed slayer of a 6-year-old girl who, police said, was drowned in a bathtub after she had been assaulted.

District Attorney Charles T. Sullivan of Queens county said that Frank Flynn (of 2907 51st avenue) Astoria, Queens, had confessed to the slaying but had denied assaulting the child.

The victim was Margaret Parlatto, daughter of a ship worker, who lived around the corner from Flynn. Her body was found yesterday afternoon on a dumbwaiter in the apartment house where Flynn lived.

Police went to Flynn's apartment on information they said they received from neighbors. District Attorney Sullivan said Flynn told the authorities he had met the child on the street and that she followed him to his apartment.

Sullivan quoted Flynn as saying he decided the child should not live, so he turned on the water in the bathtub, held her under until she was dead, and threw the body down the dumbwaiter shaft.

Police said he offered no reason for the slaying.
Dr. Howard W. Neil, assistant medical examiner, said the girl had been assaulted.

Federal Agents Solve Kidnaping

Tucson, Ariz., May 1 (AP).—The results of a year long investigation of the June Robles kidnaping and the undisclosed statements of a dying man, were ready today for presentation to a federal grand jury.

Not since the actual kidnaping and imprisonment of the six-year-old girl in a desert dungeon has interest in the case been so intense. Reports heard most frequently are that three persons will be linked with the kidnaping by evidence to be placed before the grand jury.

Evidence in the case, described as "solved" yesterday by J. Edgar Hoover of the department of justice, includes finger prints obtained from a new process from the corrugated iron "cotton" in which the little girl was held prisoner.

It also was disclosed here that investigators have the statement of a dying man to aid their case. The man, said to have been an important witness in the case, died in a Tucson hospital. Before his death, it was reported, he made incriminating statements to federal agents.

FIRST PUBLIC SCHOOL

The first free public school in America was started in the kitchen of a Boston home in 1635. 141 years before the Revolution that created the United States of America, Massachusetts honored that important event on April 23. The Boston Public Latin School of today is that first school, after six changes of location and many expansions through the three centuries. A bronze tablet bears the inscription: "From the seed planted here the whole American system of free education grew."

The ancient school boasts a fine list of pupil names, including John Hancock, Samuel Adams, Benjamin Franklin, Robert Treat Paine and William Hooper—all signers of the Declaration of Independence—Ralph Waldo Emerson, Charles Francis Adams and later celebrities. George Santayana, another graduate, once wrote of the institution:

In spite of all revolutions and all the pressure of business and all the powerful influences inclining America to live in contemptuous ignorance of the past, this Latin school has kept the embers of traditional learning alive, at which the humblest might always be lighted; has kept the highway clear for every boy to the professions of theology, law, medicine, and teaching, and a window to open his mind from these times to all other times and from this place to all other places.

That, of course, is what all true education does. If not all our public school systems have lived up to them at all times, the ideal and tradition have been there, at any rate. Today, when Americans have been shocked to find that financial troubles have closed many public schools and shortened the terms and narrowed the courses of many others, it is necessary to keep in mind the fundamental importance of free education in our national life.

GRASS INSTEAD OF SPINACH.

When Nebuchadnezzar went out and ate grass, and was therefore judged to have gone off his head, maybe he knew what he was doing. A scientist named Dr. C. F. Schnabel, speaking at the recent meeting of the American Academy of Sciences, recommended grass as a substitute for spinach and carrots, and a sensible thing for families that can't afford green vegetables the year round. The discovery was made while working with chickens.

We seem to recall some of the old sea stories telling of how sailors dying of scurvy went ashore on uninhabited islands, ate grass and recovered, but have always supposed there must have been something unusual about that grass. This expert doesn't seem to mean grazing on the lawn or feeding on baled hay. He recommends the young cereal grasses such as oats, wheat, barley and rye, often fed to chickens. Cut when less than 30 days old, and before they have started jointing, he finds, they have a "biologic value" two to five times as great as any of 20 common vegetables.

People will be wanting to know whether to raise the grain-grass in the back yard or the cellar. Maybe window boxes will do to start with.

PAGANISM.

The "new pagan" movement is certainly making remarkable headway in Germany. Jacob Wilhelm Hauer, one of the leaders, tells a great audience at the Berlin Sport Palace that Christianity, practiced in Germany for nearly 2,000 years, is not the true religion of the Germans—that they long for a "Germanic" faith, and that there is a new revelation and a new spiritual leader. "God has not revealed himself to the so-called chosen people alone," he explains, "but also to us through our Father, to enable us to accomplish our great mission in the world."

So Adolf Hitler is Germany's new Messiah? Or perhaps we should say, her Mohammed. He seems to have many of the qualities of the Arab leader who established Islam. Not that Hitler has ever given much evidence of a religious bent; but he preaches a very racial faith, and like the Arab prophet may have the will to lead his people forth and fight the world for it.

It is very hard for Americans, always sympathetic friends of the German people as we knew them before the war, to understand.

AVERAGE AMERICAN

Finding the average American is like finding the country's center of population, but more specific. In fact, the answer to this problem given by promoters of an industrial arts exposition in New York city is surprisingly definite.

According to those experts, Mr. Average Man is a resident of Fort Madison, Ia., who is 50 years old, has thinning gray hair, is a small business man, attends the Methodist church, is 5 feet 6½ inches tall, weighs 170 pounds, wears a size 15 collar and 7½ hat and silver-rimmed spectacles, likes to mow the lawn and is named Roy L. Gray. He is the father of an "average American family" consisting of a boy 17 years old and a daughter 12 years old. He also helps mother with the dishes.

If you ask us, it sounds a bit fishy—more like a publicity stunt than scientific research. We've seen average Americans who were not like that at all.

TRUE AND FALSE ANGINA.

I write very often about angina pectoris because by the use of a few precautions many of these middle aged men, worth so much to the world, might prolong their lives.

As the blood vessels are becoming weak in this condition, giving them as little work to do as possible prevents attacks. This means less exercise or work, no excitement, and not eating foods that cause gas.

You may remember that the attack comes on suddenly under or near the breast bone with a vice-like pain, a feeling of anxiety and of impending (near) death. The face is "fixed," pale or gray, and bathed in cold sweat. The pain may last a few seconds, several minutes or even hours.

A number of individuals of the nervous type, particularly women, may have attacks of pseudo or false angina pectoris as a result of nervous exhaustion followed by heart exhaustion. With these attacks there is faintness, cold and numb hands and feet, palpitation or rapid beating of the heart, usually brought on by emotion.

In hysterical women, with symptoms resembling angina pectoris, the patient throws herself violently about instead of remaining fixed or motionless—afraid to move—as with true angina pectoris. The pain which may be under the breast bone and extending down the left arm the same as in true angina pectoris is usually severe.

Further, true angina pectoris usually occurs during exertion or after a heavy meal, whereas in the false type the patient may do considerable work or take considerable exercise without the attack occurring. The false attacks usually occur at night, may last one or two hours and of course death never occurs.

However it would be wise not to call a mild attack of real angina pectoris a false attack and advise or instruct the patient to move about because this might bring on a severe attack of pain if it should be true angina pectoris.

The treatment of false angina pectoris is usually rest and riding the system of any fatigue or other poisons. Cleansing the bowel should be the first thought.

In true angina pectoris the treatment is rest, heat to the chest, amyl nitrate in a bottle to be smelled or a "pearl" to be broken in a handkerchief and smelled, or touching the tongue to the stopper of a vial containing spirit of nitroglycerin.

ENEMY'S KISS

SYNOPSIS: Alison Reed has come from school in Switzerland to meet her father at a house outside London. He is supposed to have been killed. While waiting up for him, she is attracted by a handsome young man who tells her he is doing in what should be a deserted house.

Chapter Three
EXPLANATION

ALISON hesitated. There was a ring of authority in the man's voice. In his old tweed coat, baggy trousers, with no hat, he had not looked like a burglar, but still—She tried to push his arm away but it held her the more firmly.

"Come on now!" She yielded.

"I—I was upstairs in the bathroom, and—something tried to come in."

"Something? What do you mean?" Incredulously.

"I don't know. A dreadful-looking sort of man. Horrible, like a ghost. I was frightened and—"

"Are you alone here, then?" He sounded more astonished.

"Yes."

The instant she had said it, she realized that it would have been better to pretend that there were servants in the house, sleeping. But now it was too late. He gave a faint whistle.

"This is your house?"

"I don't know," she admitted. "I suppose so."

"You don't know?" On the whole, his astonishment was justified. She heard him grope for the switch, heard it click uselessly. The lantern glimmered again as he asked, "Where's the main switch?"

"I don't know. I've never been in the place before." He was looking at her with such disbelief that she went on quickly. "I came here to meet my father. You see, I had a wire from him to come here and wait until he came. And now he hasn't come—" her voice trailed off lamely. "And I don't know what's happened!" That ended in a slight gulp.

"There! Don't!" He had let her go now, was patting her arm comfortingly.

"I'm not!" said Alison. A manifest lie.

By way of answer, he extracted a large, clean silk handkerchief and handed it to her. She took it gratefully. Her own was in a minute or two before she reappeared from the handkerchief, shakily, and with shiny nose, to meet two perplexed blue eyes. When he frowned like that, he looked much older and stern.

"Look here, what house is this?" The Croft house, Warley, isn't it?" Alison looked up with surprise. Was that the solution, she wondered? Had she got into the wrong house by mistake?

But he nodded.

"That's what I understood," he agreed. "Does it belong to your father?"

"I don't quite know. That's the queer part of it. I'd never heard of it before. But I know he was going to take a country house and his wife said the Croft house, Warley, all right. And the man at Warley in the garage seemed to know it." Alison explained confusedly. "I expect that father's just moving in—you see, he's getting married again."

"I see," the young man said that doubtfully, surveying Alison with puzzled eyes which took in her pretty face, well-cut tweed suit, good shoes and daintily-kept hands.

After a moment he added, "I was out there in the road, taking a stroll before I turned in, and I saw some one get in through this window. It struck me as not exactly—orthodox—so I followed. And the next thing I knew was you shoving your hand into my face."

He spoke so frankly, that she had to believe him: she smoothed back her thick chestnut curls, thinking, "He's nice."

The young man remarked briskly, "Look here, you wait down here. I'll have a look round for your bathroom friend."

"No!" She could not help grabbing at his arm, though she dropped it at once, exclaiming, "I—I'd rather come with you."

He looked down at her trembling mouth and eyes big with fear and nodded.

"All right. Keep behind me."

"That's all. Have you a candle?"

"No, I couldn't find any."

Ashokan, April 26.—Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Haver, Robert and Florence, took a trip to Halcott Center on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Phillips and sons, Francis and Carl, were Kingston shoppers Saturday.

Clayton Browder of Kingston visited his grandparents, and his Uncle Floyd and Aunt Mary and Cousin Joyce Matthews, and Grandpa Kiff during his Easter vacation from Thursday to Sunday when his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Browder, took him home.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell E. Bennett visited Kingston Saturday.

The Messrs. Chester Lyman and Rudolph De Genn went to Kingston Sunday evening.

Nine Florence Haver of Schoenewald, who spent her Easter vacation with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Haver, was driven home Sunday evening by her brother, Robert.

There was a pile of old newspapers in one corner of the pantry; he took up one and rolled it tightly, twisting one end. His hands, Alison noticed, were brown, strong and very finely shaped, almost too delicate for so big a man. The lantern flared up as it caught the end of the paper.

"Now, where did you see this 'ghost'?"

"He was coming after me, downstairs."

"He hasn't passed this door."

"He must have gone that way, then, into the kitchen."

Together, the smoky flare of Together, they explored the passage.

the improvised torch, they explored the passage, a long straight passage with a thick, ugly carpet in a Persian pattern, which ended in a sagged kitchen on the left and a back door, with some stone steps leading to a cellar on the right.

The back door was locked.

"We'll take it room by room: in ghost-hunting, one can't be too careful," said the man beside her, lightly.

He was tall, six feet or more, but did not look fit, being broadly built; there was something definitely comforting about those large square shoulders as he moved ahead; but in spite of that, Alison could not help looking back nervously, starting at each sound.

"Dining room." He had flung open a door and was waving the rolled newspaper so that its light fell into each part of the room. Faded green room curtains were looped high, an oak table, much the worse for wear, stood blankly in the middle with eight cane-seated chairs in a row against one green-discolored wall; the whole room was visibly free of ghosts and had the barren look of an unoccupied house.

"Ah!"

"What?"

He pointed triumphantly to a stable lantern which stood on the shabby oak sideboard.

"Hold this a minute," Alison took the newspaper; after a moment's wrestling he got the lantern open and lit it. "Now we're all right."

The smell of smoldering paper filled the room as he stamped the torch out in the grate.

AGRICULTURE

Uncle Ab says the two big problems about being married are whether to get, or stay.

Just one hundred years ago the first drain-tile laid in American soil was placed on a farm near the city of Geneva, New York.

Farm wages on April 1 were the highest for that date since 1932, according to the U. S. Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

To maintain pressure on the spray rig, the full power of the engine is needed. To obtain full power, the exhaust valve must close at the correct time.

Pullorum disease of white diarrhoea is one of the three chick troubles or diseases that combined are responsible for two-thirds of the losses in growing chickens each year in New York state.

Of all the fruits and vegetables grown in 1932 by 535 representative growers in Ulster, Dutchess, and Orange counties, McIntosh apples returned more money than any other single farm commodity.

Cornell bulletin P-629 tells about the marketing and distribution of certain farm products in the lower Hudson Valley. Single copies may be had from the New York state college of agriculture at Ithaca, New York.

A Washington Daybook

By HERBERT PLUMMER
WASHINGTON.—Aside from the enhanced prestige the smashing 372 to 33 victory on the social security bill in the house brought the administration leadership in that body; drastic changes in future procedure on the President's legislative program are seen by many observers in Washington.

Some even go so far as to forecast abandonment of future attempts to "gas" the house membership on important administration measures. The social security bill, repeatedly described by those in charge of the measure as "the most important ever to be considered by an American congress" went its way through the house unprotected by drastic rules.

It was sent to the senate practically intact. All but two of 42 suggested changes from the floor were beaten. Opponents of the "gas" rule will have a powerful weapon in their hands from now on. Any attempt to "crack down" on the membership instantly will be met with the argument the house has demonstrated it can legislate on its own and the social security bill will be cited as an example.

Bill Never In Danger

ON the other hand, should the administration leaders find it necessary later in the session to resort to "gas" tactics they can turn the same thing to their advantage. While many are of the opinion that the decision to abandon any attempt to place a "gas" rule on the social security bill was prompted by fear it would be defeated, house democratic leaders have a different explanation. They say it was unnecessary. Private canvasses of the house prior to consideration of the measure, they say, convinced them the bill never was in real danger. Even Snell of New York, republican floor leader, admitted at the start that the house was "old-age pension conscious" and that the bill would be passed. Wadsworth of New York, frequently mentioned as a republican presidential possibility in 1936, went even further:

"I realize perfectly well," said Wadsworth, "this bill will pass, with or without substantial change. Nothing I can say will prevent it or even tend to prevent it."

Pressure From Home

INSIDERS credit much of the preponderant victory of the administration—the most decisive it has chalked up during the present congress—to the pressure brought to bear on individual members of congress by constituents back home marshaled into an effective organization by the Townsendites, Lundeenites and other advocates of substitutes for the administration bill.

Talks to parents

Kept In The Dark

By BROOKE PETERS CHURCH

There was serious illness in the X family and all the adults of the clan were worried and anxious about its outcome. Mary, however, who was only eight, they decided was too young to understand the crisis, and so they told her nothing, and tried to be unconcerned and cheerful while she was about.

But Mary knew far more than anyone guessed. She could not but be aware that danger threatened her little world. The atmosphere was tense with uncertainty and dread, no one acted quite as usual. She did not know how to analyze the trouble or how to ask for explanations. So, alone, she went through an agony of suspense, with the added complication of not knowing what was the matter. Alone, she brooded upon the situation, her childish imagination leading her into dismal swamps of dismay.

No one can guess how much a child senses of what goes on around it, nor what the effect is on the child. Ignorance is not always bliss by any means, and the child, who is peculiarly sensitive to the moods of those about it, may suffer untold terrors of apprehension and dread far worse than the reality could possibly be.

Such a strain is not healthy for anyone, and least of all for the inexperienced. If the child must at all cost be kept in the dark, it had better be sent away from home until the anxiety is over. But as a rule it is better to tell it the facts of the case as the lesser of two evils.

The very inexperience which makes the suspense so hard for the child to endure, makes the knowledge of the facts easier for it to bear than for the adult. Furthermore, if it is taken into the family's confidence it has a feeling of support which it misses sadly when it is deliberately shut out.

The Buffalo Courier-Express says that robins today look better fed than a great many persons. Since when did they go on the relief rolls?

SUBMARINE ALPINE PEAK FOUND BY FRENCH VESSEL

Saint-Nazaire, France (AP)—A submarine peak, the Mont Blanc of some submerged Atlantis, has been discovered by the French cable steamer Ampere off the island of Madeira. Current charts give a depth of 2,000 fathoms at the spot but the peak is only 30 fathoms beneath the surface.

England Legalizes Tramps London (AP)—Tramps now legally sleep in barns or similar places under a bill passed in the House of Commons, thus reversing a 100-year-old principle of British law which made a penniless man liable to arrest because he could not pay for a bed.

HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATION DELAYED FIVE DECADES

Columbus, O., (AP)—Her golden wedding anniversary out of the way, Mrs. Catherine Sheets at 73 is looking forward to graduating from high school.

She's numbered among members of the night school class due to receive diplomas in a few weeks. School authorities believe she will be the oldest woman ever to graduate from high school.

Next fall Mrs. Sheets, who is six times a grandmother, plans to enroll as a freshman at Ohio State University, and "when I graduate from college I want to teach mathematics."

"I guess I've been a school girl all my life," she says. "because I have always felt there was something I started that was never finished."

ONE-THIRD OF HOOSIERS MAY DRIVE MOTORCARS.

Indianapolis (AP)—Approximately one-third of Indiana's 3,238,503 inhabitants will be driving automobiles by the end of 1935, predicts Frank Finney, chief of the state bureau of motor vehicles. Drivers' licenses have been issued to 852,359 persons so far this year, according to Finney, and he believes there is every reason to believe the million mark will be passed. Last year at this time, 749,747 drivers' licenses had been issued.

MODES OF THE MOMENT

Summer millinery moves toward "lingerie lightness," Diana Murrin

The newer millinery is in keeping at front. The bandeau at back is with the vogue for lighter more summery styles with much lace. The chapeau below is a dressier flower and fruit trim. Many hats for summer dresses use oriental touch, having practically no starched lace or net for entire hat, crown at all. Veiling covers the eyes for contrast, use crowns of straw. These effects are new and very acceptable manner. Fashions' pendulum is swinging back to quaint, feminine and more dainty styles. The mannish vogue while not entirely dispensed with is softened to a great extent and this coming season will find women wearing hats that tend to soften and flatter.

Want Time Extended to Complete Art Works For City Buildings

More Time Needed to Complete Painting of Murals For Kingston Municipal Auditorium and High School; Time Ended Today.

The local emergency relief bureau has set up a project to extend the time for completing the art objects to be placed in the Kingston Municipal Auditorium, Kingston High School and city hall for another three months. The project was originally for three months, and the time expired today. Unless the project is approved it will be impossible to complete the painting of the murals to be placed in the Auditorium and High School.

The mural intended for the Auditorium will depict the burning of Kingston and will be 75 feet wide and 25 feet high. There are four murals planned for the high school, two to be three by nine feet and two to be three by four feet. These murals will just fit in the space on the walls on the second floor of the high school near the stairs. They will represent manual and cultural arts.

Another art object intended for the high school is a plaque of the late Dr. M. J. Michael, for many years superintendent of the Kingston Schools. This plaque is being modeled by John Banks and is modeled in clay. Just what material it will be cast in has not been decided as yet.

Paul Fiene's Deer

Another art object modeled in clay is that of a deer rising from the ground and about to flee. Just what material will be used in casting this has also not been decided. It is planned to place this statue in Academy Park, opposite the Governor Clinton Hotel. The sculptor is Paul Fiene.

In addition to other art objects there are about 15 paintings and half a dozen etchings intended for installation in the buildings here. These have been completed and accepted by the local committee, but have not been framed. It is likely that another project will have to be approved to cover the work of framing the paintings.

Judson Smith, an artist of Woodstock, is the director and supervisor in charge of the art project, and the work is being done by Woodstock artists. Mr. Smith stated today that he was greatly pleased with the work accomplished and of the artistic work that had been done by the artists.

Cleric Pleads Stronger NRA to Help Labor

Troy, N. Y., May 1 (AP).—Strengthening of the NRA to give President Roosevelt power to force reductions in working hours is advocated by the Rev. Francis J. Haas, member of the National Labor Advisory Board.

Father Haas, who also is director of the National Catholic School for Social Service, appealed to 500 members of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America meeting here last night, to support the Wagner bill now before congress in order to strengthen the NRA.

"The clear experience of two years," he said, shows that the NRA law must be strengthened. At present the most urgent need is compulsory reduction of hours down to 30 per week.

"The NRA should be reinforced by giving the president power to compel selfish and recalcitrant groups to shorten hours and assume their proper responsibilities. This is required to protect both decent employers and the people as a whole."

"In the present stage of American industry, this means let the workers form their own unions and pick their own bargaining agents. By doing this they will be able to get decent hours and have their own incomes instead of having the government collect taxes and feed them with public doles."

"If the worker is permitted to bargain through his chosen representatives, he will have something like the bargaining power the corporation enjoys and he will get better wages and shorter hours. This is what the Wagner bill seeks to accomplish."

274 Pioneers Sail For Alaskan Farms In Matanuska Valley

San Francisco, May 1 (AP).—Movies and a hill billy orchestra were aboard the army transport St. Mihiel today as 274 Alaska-bound colonists from impoverished Minnesota farms awaited the sailing hour toward new homes and opportunities.

The transport's schedule called for sailing late today with Seward as the destination for the modern pioneers who hope to reestablish themselves on 40-acre farm tracts in the Matanuska Valley, one of the most fertile in the world.

Enroute to the government-sponsored project, the colonists will have entertainment as varied as that furnished by numerous civic bodies here during their two-day stay after a journey from St. Paul, Minn.

Games for the children and men, motion pictures, music by a crew band and the colonists' hill billy orchestra are only a few items to keep the group in good spirits during the six-day voyage.

All of the immigrants are married and nearly all have children. There are many tiny babies.

A gala scene was arranged for the sailing, with city and relief officials, friends, relatives and well-wishers planning to attend as they did when the party arrived Monday.

Besides the 274 settlers the St. Mihiel, under command of Capt. Daniel Humphrey, will take about 400 single men from FEDERA transient camps who will assist in necessary construction work for the project in the Matanuska Valley.

Each of the 67 families will be given a 40-acre tract for which they will repay $3,000 government loans over a 30-year period. The fertile valley is suited to grain, vegetables and the harder fruits.

An additional 1,000 will follow the first contingent from Seattle later this month.

PROF. REA VISITED COUNTY BEEKEEPERS.

Prof. George H. Rea, beekeeping specialist of Cornell University, spent Saturday, April 27, in Ulster county visiting the 4-H beekeeping members. He was accompanied on a 150-mile tour of the county by County Club Agent Barnard Joy.

The colonies of each member were opened and the members were instructed in the care and management of their stock. As most of the colonies had been packed last winter they were in good condition and the bees were already carrying pollen and nectar. The 11 4-H beekeeping members are Franklin Keider, Accord; Carl Day, Highland; Wesley Smith, Saugerties; Ralph Tice, Spring Glen; Edward Friedman, Rifton; George Schneider, St. Remy; Julius Eckert, Rifton; Patrick Malloy, Walkkill; Chester Auchmoody, Clintondale; Albert Davis, Olive Bridge; and Clifford Birch, Walkkill. They own a total of 54 colonies.

SPECIAL MEETINGS IN FREE METHODIST CHURCH

This evening at 7:45 the monthly missionary meeting of the Free Methodist Church will be held in the home of the president, Mrs. John Glass, 68 Cedar street. This will be essentially a prayer meeting in view of the coming evangelistic campaign. On Thursday evening at 7:45 the weekly prayer and class meeting will be held in the church. The pastor requests that every member of the church and congregation be present for a special reason. Sunday, May 5, an evangelistic campaign will commence in this church with Evangelist L. S. Hoover of Indiana in charge. The Rev. L. S. Hoover is one of the strongest evangelists of the Free Methodist denomination. Those who have heard him, say he is a very interesting speaker. He has served many large churches and camp meetings. There will be preaching services on Sunday at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. and each evening during the week at 7:45. Everyone invited to every service.

ROY CRONK HELD FOR RECKLESS DRIVING.

Roy S. Cronk of Walkkill was arrested by Sergeant Lockhart Tuesday on a reckless driving charge. The arrest was made on a warrant. Arraigned before Justice William R. Carr at Clintondale, a plea of not guilty was entered and Cronk was released on bail for a hearing May 2. The complainant is Leonard Tabakoff of Plattekill, who claims his car was in an accident with the Cronk machine Monday evening. At the time the Tabakoff machine was being driven by Isadore Schenck of Brooklyn. No one was injured.

COOPERATIVE PLAN SHOWS RESULTS

Oswego, N. Y.—The cooperative plan between contractors and home owners here has resulted in the preparation of actual contracts or definite estimates totaling $42,000.

The cooperative method of furthering the better-housing program was instituted in Oswego about a month ago. Through this plan salesmen representing a contractors' association contract home owners and acquaint them with the possibilities of modernization. Next, an architect affiliated with the contractors' association prepares plans and estimates, which are then submitted to the home owner by the salesmen. The completion of contracts has been speeded up by this method.

Up to the present time 418 property owners in Oswego have been reached by the canvass. Much of the work is being financed by home owners through ordinary bank loans, but up to March 30 jobs valued at $15,282 had been financed under the Modernization Credit Plan of the Federal Housing Administration through local banks and financial agencies.

Rare Opportunities To Buy Real Estate

Property Made Saleable By Modernization

(Design 112-Copyright by Southern Pine Association)

The attractive home design shown in the top illustration was produced by the remodeling of the old house shown in the small picture at the bottom, which was built in the late Nineteenth Century, when homes frequently were trimmed with lacy filigree that had no relation to the real nature of the structure.

In the remodeling, the lines of the original house that express the general relations of forms—such as the roof and porch lines—were simplified to a more direct solution, so as to bring the whole structure into a more harmonious unit.

As the lower picture shows, the steps on the original house have a "shoot-the-chutes" appearance that is not very cordial or welcoming. The steps were changed about in order to make the persons calling feel that they need not be in such a hurry to leave, or that they were entering a salesman's "exit." Note the modernized front door and the changed style of windows both in the main part of the home and in the basement.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Copy of "Southern Pine Book of Remodeling" replete with illustrated suggestions of exterior and interior modernizing and practical information on these subjects, will be sent free on request to "Southern Pine Association, New Orleans, La.")

Better Housing Plan Draws Business to Dentist

Little Rock, Ark.—The business stimulus generated by the modernization credit plan of the Federal Housing Administration has created such marked indirect benefits that even a dentist here was prompted to gratitude.

Recently he walked into the headquarters of the Better Housing Committee in Little Rock and voluntarily offered a $10 contribution to the campaign fund. He told workers there that so many carpenters, painters, contractors and others had found employment since the inception of the repair and improvement program that his business had jumped noticeably upward. Many were paying old bills and the current number of patients had materially increased. For these reasons, he said the associate director of Little Rock was wished to contribute his share to the furtherance of the movement.

Pick out from the pile of samples to which you wish to put this test, then by striking them together sharply, holding them by the ends you will find the answer. PLAN TO IMPROVE
OLD UTAH HOME

Salt Lake City, Utah.—One of the oldest homes in Utah, adjacent to the site where the first new home constructed in Utah to be financed under the mutual mortgage insurance plan of the Federal Housing Administration of "before and after" the better housing program, according to officials here.

The old home, the pioneer residence of Wilford Woodruff, was built in the early eighteenth century and will be modernized by the present owner without impairing its original rustic appearance.

Only a few yards away on the same street, Gov. Henry R. Blood broke ground recently for the foundation of a new home to be erected by O. J. Brown, which is being financed through the insured-mortgage plan.

An elaborate exhibition to stimulate interest in the Federal Housing Administration's program is being sponsored by the Salt Lake Council of Women through its civic and better homes committee.

The exhibition opened April 1 at the civic center and features building materials, home fixtures, paints, and landscaping supplies. Building and supply houses furnished the exhibits.

NEW ROOF ON OLD ONE WILL CUT COST OF JOB

With spring rains not far away, it is well to think about a new roof. When reroofing a house, it is sometimes advantageous to select a roofing material that can be applied directly over the old roof.

"Overroofing" as this process is called, is a method that is practical, economical, and profitable. The labor and expense of removing the old roof is eliminated. The ease and simplicity of the application is greatly increased. Littering of the lawn is avoided and the home is completely protected from any possible damage by inclement weather during the operation.

A double roof is the result of this method, which offers increased protection from storm damage, and acts as an insulation, enhancing home comforts both in winter and in summer.

All Employed

Fort Smith, Ark.—There is not one carpenter or painter remaining on relief rolls here, according to a report by the Associate Director for the state better-housing organization. This is the first time this condition has existed in many months, according to the director. A better-housing exhibit is being held in the heart of the business district, sponsored by building supply dealers, with a generous display of materials and fixtures. Widespread public interest is reported.

NEW HOME CONSTRUCTION
AIDED BY TITLE 2 OF FHA

By EARL McMILLEN

Under the provision of Title 2 of the National Housing Act, the home-owner and prospective home-owner is given the simplest and cheapest financing that has ever been available. He is given an 80 per cent (maximum) mortgage, with interest at 5 per cent, and 20 years to retire it. This type of loan eliminates the dangerous and expensive second mortgage, and is available now.

About Article 2: Before considering the mechanics of loan procedure, it would be well to understand something of the facts concerning Title 2.

First and foremost it should be understood that the government is not advancing the money for these loans. It comes, rather, from properly qualified and approved local institutions—referred to as Mortgagees. All applications for loans should be directed to them.

Title 2 made into a law, a device known as MUTUAL MORTGAGE INSURANCE, whose function is to insure the payment of principal and interest of mortgages. This is an instrumentality of the Federal Government, and is operated under the supervision of the Federal Housing Administration. It is a permanent measure and is designed to give both security and "turn-over" to the real estate mortgage market. Now for the details of the financing set-up.

Approved Mortgagees: All loans will be made by local institutions that have qualified under the requirements of the Federal Housing Administration.

Procedure: For those wishing to apply for an insured mortgage loan, application must be made at the office of an approved mortgagee. Complete working drawing and specifications covering the proposed new home will be necessary, and a detailed application blank, setting forth facts pertaining to the applicant and the proposed new home, will be filled out.

Borrower's Requirements: The borrower must show a "reasonable" ability to make the payments called for under the terms of the mortgage. He will not be allowed to burden himself with an in-

COOPERATIVE PLAN
SHOWS RESULTS

Oswego, N. Y.—The cooperative plan between contractors and home owners here has resulted in the preparation of actual contracts or definite estimates totaling $42,000.

The cooperative method of furthering the better-housing program was instituted in Oswego about a month ago. Through this plan salaried men representing a contractors' association contact home owners and acquaint them with the possibilities of modernization. Next, an architect affiliated with the contractors' association prepares plans and estimates, which are then submitted to the home owner by the salaried men. The completion of contracts has been speeded up by this method.

Up to the present time 418 property owners in Oswego have been reached by the canvass. Much of the work is being financed by home owners through ordinary bank loans, but up to March 20 jobs valued at $15,263 had been financed under the Modernization Credit Plan of the Federal Housing Administration through local banks and financial agencies.

Painting Downspouts: When painting downspouts on the house, select the same color as the wall against which they are placed. This will keep them inconspicuous.

A Bungalow That Is 'Roomy'

Elizabethan House Has An Attractive Air

Although the lowest point of the sloping ceiling of this Elizabethan period house is five feet, it is termed a bungalow type. It is, however, in style and accommodations, quite removed from the ordinary conception of a bungalow.

The plan of the metal basement windows give an attractive air to the house. The design of the living room window has been arranged so that lower levels may be added.

Long roof lines, combined with the wide front doorway and long windows, create a spacious appearance. Two fireplaces form a feature of the house. There is a fireplace both in the living room and in the master bedroom upstairs.

There is a bedroom with bath on the first floor, and two bedrooms with bath on the second. Closets and storage space is ample. An important item of construction is the concentration of plumbing.

The plan is suitable for either a corner or an inside lot. A minimum of 60-foot frontage is necessary to place the house properly.

Approximate maximum cost is estimated at $8,000 and $10,000, with local labor and material costs important influences.

REDWOOD IS IDEAL WOOD
TO BUILD LAWN PIECES

From the humid and foggy north coast of California comes the Redwood, that magnificent giant of the forest. Huge and rugged in stature, they have been known to grow to 375 feet in height and as large as twenty-five feet in diameter. The ring count shows many of them to be over 2,000 years old. These are the trees travel minded friends send back on postcards showing a road cut through them.

This redwood lumber comes from a comparatively small area, a timbered region of approximately one million acres. Here are found the oldest and largest living things on the face of the globe today. This section, approximately ten to twenty five miles in width and three hundred miles in length, contains the heaviest store of valuable timber per acre in the world.

Commercially known as California redwood, it is ideal for outdoor use. Nature has supplied it with a tannic acid which makes the "heart" wood practically impervious to decay. The heart wood is easily distinguished by its reddish brown color, while the "sapwood" is almost white. In all woods, the sapwood is least desirable, but in many other species it is almost impossible to distinguish it from the "heart" wood.

Because nature has endowed this wood with such lasting qualities, it is ideal for outdoor use. Subjected to constant moisture and dampness, it does not decay and still retains its strength and solid fibre. In selecting outdoor furniture, window boxes, plant stakes, or other items for outdoor use, much care should be used in the kind of wood chosen.

There are so many interesting possibilities in lawn furniture—so much that it can add in pleasure and enjoyment of a home during the summer months. Put on some window boxes and shutters, they'll add much to the attractiveness of your home. Get a comfortable lawn chair for that cool, shady spot under the big tree in the back yard. It will return its small cost many times over in pleasure and enjoyment.

WALL PAPER USEFUL FOR NEW PANELS

A new use has been found for the many new and artistically designed wall papers now on the market.

In rooms where a paneled effect is produced by wood trim, applied to break up large expanses of plain wall space, home owners are buying wall paper in quantities sufficient to fill one, or more of these paneled spaces.

A variation of this idea is used where a room is paneled in a flat color and some one point, such as a closed arch or sealed doorway, requires special accentuation. Careful selection of a strong, harmonizing design has been found to be effective, especially when the proper table or other piece of furniture is placed in correct relation to it.

Wall paper can be purchased and hung with money obtained from any approved lending institution under the Modernization Credit Plan of the Federal Housing Administration.

Care in Applying Stucco

Stucco has practically no structural strength and is applied to the wall less than an inch thick. If the stucco is applied to a base which is not structurally permanent, or which expands and contracts at a different rate than stucco, it is natural that cracks and spalling of the surface will result. In order to have stucco harden and cure to perfection, and stand solid as a rock for years, brick or a similar material forms the best base.

Housing Hints

Tips on How and What to Improve

Garage Repairs

Not infrequently a garage door bumped and damaged by an automobile when driving it in, or taking it out of the garage. This often results in a loosened hinge, a split stile or rail, loosened panels, and broken window panes. Such repairs are commonly neglected during the cold winter months but they may be quickly and easily repaired during balmy spring days. If neglected, deterioration occurs and, if bumped again by the car the door may be broken off necessitating installation of a new one at considerable expense.

Sash Advice

When removing the storm sash with the advent of warm spring weather, it is advisable to clean and oil hinges or similar fastenings to protect them from rusting or deteriorating during the spring and summer. Fastenings left on the house should be firmly secured to the building and a protective coat of paint or varnish applied, if necessary. Then when the home owner is ready to use them again in the fall, there will be no delays or expensive repairs to make.

Repair Cracks

Cracks which may have developed in stucco walls during the winter should be repaired before the walls are saturated by driving spring rains. Rainwater may cause deterioration of interior portions of the wall and be a contributing cause of further cracking of the stucco necessitating complete replacement of the exterior surface.

FUNCTIONS PROMPTLY.

Hancock County, Miss.—Lee M. Seal, president of the Hancock County Banks of Bay St. Louis, Pass Christian, and Gulfport, recently visited federal housing headquarters and said that his first application had "cured him of the belief that no government agency could function promptly."

The first application presented to his bank, Mr. Seal said, was completed in 6 days from the date of application. He told the state director that he has instructed his three banks to accept requests for all loans that the Federal Housing Administration will insure. He explained further that he has written Senators Pat Harrison and Theodore Bilbo in Washington expressing his delight over the operation of the Federal Housing Administration.

Now that Easter is past, women will begin worrying about autumn styles.

Visiting Girl—Am I the only girl you've ever kissed?
Young Man—Yes.
Visiting Girl—Yes, you kiss like it.

It is easier to talk than to think. If we didn't talk any more than we thought, it would be a rather silent world.

Man—Did you give up anything during Lent?
Friend—Yes, I gave up $40 for New Easter clothes for my family.

Advice To Young Men
If you wish to win your girl, first you have to concentrate; take her for a merry whirl. Then pretend to abdicate. Leave to her imagination. Why the cause of abdication. Nonchalance will do the trick. Make her wish to test her charms if perchance some Tom or Dick hasn't bigger, stronger arms. Absence makes the heart grow fonder.
If it doesn't make it wander.

Young Man—What's the matter with you?
Friend—My sweetie and I had words last night. I told her I was going away forever, and she said for me to go ahead.
Young Man—Well, if you're any man at all, you'll stay away a couple of evenings at least before going to see her again.

Styles for women may change with infinite caprice, but they will never go back to cotton stockings.

Bank Manager—Oscar, there'll be a vacancy here soon and I'm thinking of giving your twin brother the job.

Oscar (in utter surprise)—My twin brother?
Bank Manager—Yes, the one I saw watching the ball games yesterday, while you were at your aunt's funeral.

Oscar—Oh—er—yes, I—I remember! I—I'll go out and hunt him up!

Bank Manager—Good! And don't come back till you've found him!

Pay as you go is the best policy but if we did most of us wouldn't get any further than the front door.

Barber—It is raining very hard outside. Why not stay awhile and have a shampoo?
MacTavish—No, thanks. I'll just keep my hat off walking home.

If the Townsend plan were adopted the fast life we're living today wouldn't be half as tough.

No matter what the tasks, let them be done
With willing hands and heart from sun to sun;
For faithfulness to smallest duty brings
The open way which leads to grander things.

Doctor—Your master is decidedly better, Thompson, but very irritable. He must not be thwarted.
Butler—He expressed a desire to wring my neck, sir—humor him.

It is not until a depression comes that we realize that what we had before was prosperity.

Lady—Do I pay anything for children?
Conductor—No fare for all under four.
Lady—That's fine, but how much for the other four? I have eight.

Often an unfortunate experience on a by-path is just what is needed to keep us on the main road.

To Those Who Give
A generous soul, in you I see the light
Of happiness, which sheds its brilliance far
Into the world, and by its gifted might
The gates of love and wisdom doth unbar.

The difference between this world and the next is that here they have to take the good along with the bad.

Now that Easter is past, women will begin worrying about autumn styles.

Visiting Girl—Am I the only girl you've ever kissed?
Young Man—Yes.
Visiting Girl—Yes, you kiss like it.

It is easier to talk than to think. If we didn't talk any more than we thought, it would be a rather silent world.

Man—Did you give up anything during Lent?
Friend—Yes, I gave up $40 for New Easter clothes for my family.

Advice To Young Men
If you wish to win your girl, first you have to concentrate; take her for a merry whirl; then pretend to abdicate; why the cause of abdication, nonchalance will do the trick. Make her wish to test her charms if perchance some Tom or Dick hasn't bigger, stronger arms; absence makes the heart grow fonder.

If it doesn't make it wander.
Young Man—What's the matter with you?
Friend—My sweetie and I had words last night. I told her I was going away forever, and she said for me to go ahead.
Young Man—Well, if you're any man at all, you'll stay away a couple of evenings at least before going to see her again.

Styles for women may change with infinite caprice, but they will never go back to cotton stockings.

Bank Manager—Oscar, there'll be a vacancy here soon and I'm thinking of giving your twin brother the job.

Oscar (in utter surprise)—My twin brother?
Bank Manager—Yes, the one I saw watching the ball games yesterday, while you were at your aunt's funeral.

Oscar—Oh—er—yes, I—I remember! I'll go out and hunt him up!

Bank Manager—Good! And don't come back till you've found him!

Pay as you go is the best policy but if we did most of us wouldn't get any further than the front door.

Barber—It is raining very hard outside. Why not stay awhile and have a shampoo?
MacTavish—No, thanks. I'll just keep my hat off walking home.

If the Townsend plan were adopted the fast life we're living today wouldn't be half fast enough.

No matter what the tasks, let them be done.
With willing hands and heart from sun to sun;
For faithfulness to smallest duty brings
The open way which leads to grander things.

Doctor—Your master is decidedly better, Thompson, but very irritable. He must not be thwarted.
Butler—He expressed a desire to wring my neck, sir.

Doctor—Well—er—humor him.
It is not until a depression comes that we realize that what we had before was prosperity.

Lady—Do I pay anything for children?
Conductor—No fare for all under four.
Lady—That's fine, but how much for the other four? I have eight.

Often an unfortunate experience on a by-path is just what is needed to keep us on the main road.

To Those Who Give
A generous soul, in you I see the light
Of happiness, which sheds its brilliance far
Into the world, and by its gifted might
The gates of love and wisdom doth unbar.

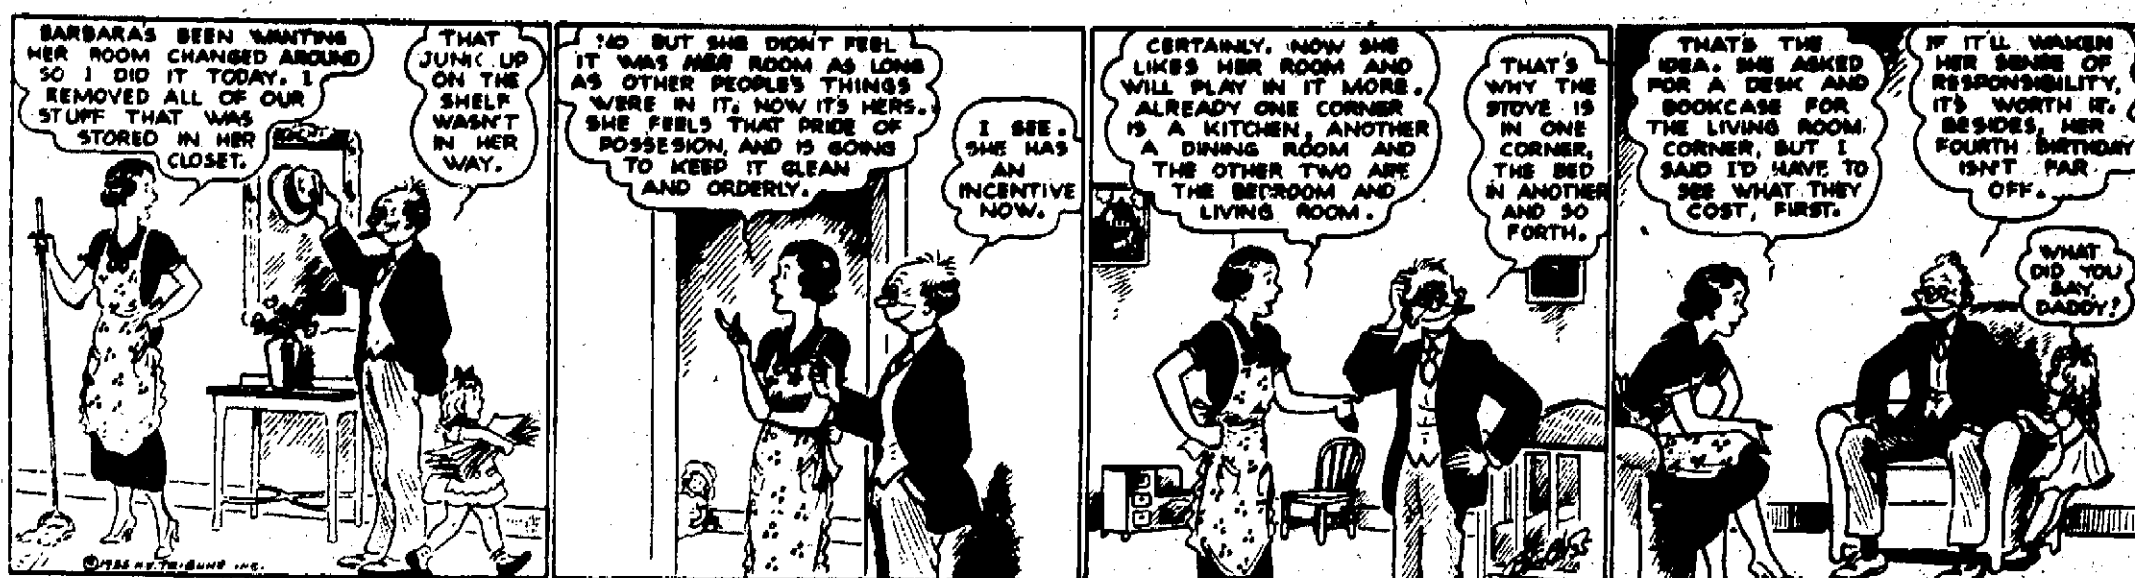

The difference between this world and the next is that here there is no need to take the good along with the bad.

Goeben, N. Y., May 1 (P).—The Rev. George Stockdale, pastor of the Montgomery Methodist and Bullville Community Churches, today served formal notice on the United States government that he will not bear arms against an enemy.

His objections to war were registered here in the office of the Orange county clerk. These are the first objections of their kind ever registered in this county and are believed to be the first registered in the nation.

The Rev. Stockdale filed a lengthy statement explaining his action as not alone to religious convictions but also to a belief that the oceans are sufficient protection against any potential invaders.

Schenectady, N. Y., May 1 (P).—Ralph Ury, president of the Adirondack district A. A. U., said today that the district track and field championship meet has been definitely assigned to the General Electric A. A. at Schenectady. At The Theatres

Today

Broadway: "Life Begins at 40." The thousands who have read Walter R. Pitkin's book of the same name will discover, on viewing this film, that the only thing the motion picture people used in producing this film was the title. It's a good thing, because Mr. Pitkin's wordy optimism wouldn't have made good comedy.

The movie version, however, couldn't have been better chosen, because it is one of the funniest pictures Will Rogers has ever starred in. It's an easy going provincial type of show, the kind Mr. Rogers finds so well adapted to his abilities, and in the role of a newspaper editor, Mr. Rogers settles political arguments, expands on the troubles bounding human society, sings, and even helps a young couple find happiness.

And through it all is found a constant stream of comedy, so well done and original that it's sure to meet with favor from any audience.

One episode, when Mr. Rogers paints Slim Summerville's glasses black for an express purpose, is a comedy highlight of the picture. A fine supporting cast includes Dick Cromwell, Rochelle Hudson, George Barbier and June Darwell.

Orpheum: "Carnival." and "Ticket to Crime." The enjoyments and troubles that come to circus people is the reason for the first attraction, a story of carnival life with Lee Tracy in the role of a sleeper. James Durante is also to be seen in a comedy assignment and Sally Eilers is the live interest. "Ticket to Crime" is the second full length attraction with Ralph Graves featured.

Kingston: "McFadden's Flats" and "Death Flies East." The human interest angle is well brought out during the first play, a story of simple folks so well screened that it offers many a laugh and tear during its unfolding. Especially so when the daughter of one of the families living in the flat comes home from finishing school and high-hats both parents and sweetheart. Walter C. Kelly, Andy Clyde, June Darwell, George Barbier, Betty Furness and Dick Cromwell are in the cast. All family entertainment. "Death Flies East" is a jumbled mystery drama that takes place on a plane heading eastward. A mysterious death takes place, there are whispers of a secret formula aboard and various other troubles arise to cause uneasiness. Conrad Nagel, Florence Rice and Raymond Walburn head the cast.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS & SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—At the Cafe Marguerita, where Grace Moore sings and grand opera scenes are done in style, one can feed the body with clipped beef gray on hot biscuits for forty cents, or eat such homey provender as Manhattan clam chowder, ten cents (with meals 45c).

So a perusal of the prop menu reveals, and it is decidedly incongruous with the cafe setting unless the "popular prices" have something to do with the story of "Love Me Forever" (as well they might). The story is about a gambler who plunges a fortune into a swank cafe so that people can hear the heroine (Miss Moore) sing. He loses money—perhaps because of the numerous 40-cent meals suggested—but he doesn't mind, so long as people come to hear his artist in the kind of songs she wants to sing. His aim for her is the Metropolitan.

But more likely, the menu is like that because only a portion of it will show on the screen, that part in large type at the bottom which says: "No service while La Marguerita sings."

Grace Didn't Sing
Your reporter spent a part of a morning on the cafe set waiting for the time when there would be no service, or rather for La Marguerita to sing. The time came—in fact it stayed—but still Marguerita did not sing. That is the way of pictures.

But today the cameras were turned toward the audience. Director Victor Schertzinger was eliciting enthusiasm from the diners and sippers, formally attired. Gaetano Merola, conductor, was conducting, quite authentically.

Synthetic Applause
The director was working hard. Waiters must be placed properly, gay conversation must be sustained, chairs arranged so that each $15 face will beget the effect of a full house. (Schertzinger was lamenting that he had no more dress extras to contribute to that effect.)

With everything finally set, the cameras "rolled." The orchestra began to play—softly, for the real music was coming from the "playback" record—and Cheer Leader Schertzinger led the applause, timed its dying off, and evoked its resumption. Extra's are obliging folk. They clapped and clapped, laughed and laughed, at the wave of Schertzinger's hat.

A few moments later, one heard La Marguerita. They played the final strains of Miss Moore's aria, to give the extras something to cheer about. They cheered. But it was only a record.

Sitting there, smiling, Miss Moore listened critically and seemed to approve. But it was disappointing. The waiters did not sing, but La Marguerita—except on a record—did not.

NEW PALTZ

New Palts, May 1.—At the Methodist Church service Sunday night, April 28, the parable of the Prodigal Son was dramatized under the direction of the Rev. and Mrs. A. E. May of the Zion A. M. E. Church of Middletown. The four children of the Rev. and Mrs. May also had a part on the program which was announced by the Rev. Robert L. Mauterstock, pastor of the church, as follows: Hymn, "Jesus Calls Us"; prayer, the Rev. Robert L. Mauterstock; duet, "The Old Rugged Cross," by the twins, Herbert and Harold May, accompanied by their mother; duet, "Out of the Ivory Palaces," by Gloria and Arthur May; Scripture, Luke 15, beginning with the 11th verse, by the Rev. Robert L. Mauterstock; quartette, Gloria, Arthur, Herbert and Harold May, who sang "Swing Low Sweet Chariot," and "Oh Hand Me Down My Silver Trumpet." After this the Prodigal Son was dramatized by a group from the Rev. Mr. May's Church, which was very impressive and interesting. The pastor then made a few remarks and the offering was received. In County Granges Clintondale Grange.

The regular meeting of Clintondale Grange No. 357, will be held on Monday evening in the Grange Hall, in charge of Master Howard Simpson. At this time the program will consist of a program for "Mother and Father," in charge of Mrs. Alice Van Sieten. At the close of the meeting refreshments will be served in charge of a committee consisting of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Weaver, Donald Weaver, Mr. and Mrs. William Davis, Miss Dorothy Weaver, James Davis, Mr. and Mrs. William Deuby, Mrs. Ethelinda Hurd, and Salvatore Scemica. At this time, because of daylight saving time the meeting will be called for 8:30 instead of 8 o'clock.

Mt. Tremper.

Fourteen patrons of this Grange were present at the meeting in Plattkill Grange on April 25. They are Master Ruckert and wife, Past Master Frank Carle, Sisters Mrs. A. Lane, Mrs. H. Woodworth, Iola Riseley and Lena Lane; Brothers Richard Byron, Grant Lane, Joe Haver, Louis Lane, Richard Lane, "Herb" Woodworth and Waldo Boerker.

Worthy State Secretary Stanley's talk on "Dividends of His Grange Investment" was most educational and enjoyable. In fact the whole meeting was an inspiration to all.

Worthy Lecturer Sister Jenkins' work is highly commendable, and it is unfortunate Mt. Tremper Grange has not had the benefit of her visits for the past three years. We feel the lack of her splendid leadership greatly.

A beautiful tableaux was presented in which our acting lecturer, Sister Iola Riseley represented "Faith." Sister Riseley deserves this honor, as she is one of the Grange's faithful charter members.

The party held at the Grange Hall on Friday evening, April 26, was very successful. At this time three birthdays were celebrated; that of Sister Delores Hasbrouck, Brother George Byron, Jr., and little Madeleine Boerker. The birthday cake was baked by Sister Ruckert.

The Catskill Mountain Ramblers played their symphonic music to which almost everyone danced, to enjoy the spirit of the occasion.

Cards and dominoes were played. The big and little children played "Walking to Georgia," Sister Mrs. Ed Powell accompanied the orchestra on the piano.

An announcement was made regarding the dance the Grange is giving in the Town Hall in Allaben on Saturday, May 18. Music furnished by the Catskill Mountain Ramblers. The committee in charge are Brothers Frank Carle, Royal Morris and John Zauner.

The next meeting will be May 3 at 7:30 p. m., standard time.

Plattekill.

At the regular meeting of Plattkill Grange which was held in the Grange Hall on Saturday evening, April 27, the following literary program was presented under the direction of Gerow Wilkin: Opening song, "Coming Thro' The Rye," by Grange; an educational talk, "Arranging a Satisfactory Spraying Schedule," by Walter Clarke; violin solo, "Blue Danube Waltz," George Hallock; an interesting talk concerning a winter spent in Florida by Edward Schoonmaker. Mrs. Schoonmaker added interesting remarks to Mr. Schoonmaker's talk; a piano solo, "Narcissus," by Mrs. Edmund Wager; "Brain teasers" by Charles Jenkins and Gertrude Kopaske; Closing song, "Home Sweet Home," by the Grange. Reminiscence remarks were made by J. B. Palmer.

Due to a change in the program the initiation into first and second degrees of new members will be held on May 25 instead of May 11.

On May 13, Plattkill Grange will visit Rosendale Grange at Tillson Methodist church hall.

At the close of the meeting delicious refreshments were served by the following committee: Mr. and Mrs. Seth Lippincott, Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Sheeley, Mr. and Mrs. William Sheeley, Mr. and Mrs. William McElhone, Eugene Stevens, Sylvester Reed, Emeretta Jansen, Oscar Jansen, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Jansen, Mrs. Adrian DeWitt.

PINE BUSH SCHOOL GAVE

SUCCESSFUL MINSTREL SHOW

The minstrel show by the Pine Bush school given at the Rochester Dutch Reformed Church on Wednesday evening, April 24, was a great success. The sum of $29.15 was raised, with which the piano was paid for, together with the tuning. The entire company gave a splendid performance. Thanks are due Walter Mikhilons, who favored us with a tip-dance; and Miss Beatrice Cohen, who rendered Schubert's Serenade on the piano. This was the only outside talent. Credit and thanks were due to the teacher, Miss Bendesky, who trained the players for the show.

Wife in Hospital, Case Is Adjourned

This morning in police court an adjournment was taken until May 9, in the case of Louis Johnson, a negro, of Glance, arrested in the early morning of April 23, on a charge of reckless driving following a collision between the car driven by Johnson and a car driven by Mrs. F. W. Kirk of 231 Albany avenue. Johnson's wife, who was riding with him, was injured and removed to the Kingston Hospital where she is still confined with her injuries, and it was for that reason that a further adjournment was taken today. According to Johnson his wife suffered a broken arm and was bruised about the body. Another charge of operating a car without a driver's license was also lodged against Johnson but he produced the necessary papers this morning and received a suspended sentence on that charge. He said that he had received a telephone call from a friend who had missed the last bus and in his hurry in leaving the house to come to Kingston after the friend he had forgotten to take his driving license with him.

John Vaughn of Rosendale, arrested on a charge of using license plates issued for one car on another car of different make, pleaded guilty and was fined $2 by Judge Culliton.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sore and sick and the world looks pink, don't swallow a lot of pills, laxative water, salt, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a more movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of bile into your blood daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your blood doesn't get it. It just dries in the bowels. Go back to your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul. Also often indigestion, flatulence, constipation, when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

Don't take any more pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Expect a soft, sweet, and healthy stool.

Joyce-Schirick Vets' Minstrel on May 8

Commander John Green of Joyce-Schirick Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, today announced a minstrel show for the benefit of the organization to be staged at White Eagle Hall, Delaware avenue, Wednesday night, May 8, by a troupe from Catskill Post.

"Our comrades at Catskill offered us this show, all ready to go on, for the benefit of our Post fund. The program contains the names of some of the best performers in Greene county. I have been told, meaning that the show will be a pleasing one. It is our hope that there will be a large audience to greet our Catskill friends."

Tickets for the minstrel can be obtained from members of Joyce-Schirick Post or at the door on the night of the show.

Commander Green while speaking of the minstrel said he wished to thank Post Commander John J. Finerty, Jr., of Kingston Post, American Legion, for the consideration he gave the vets in arranging the next Legion boxing bouts.

"It was very thoughtful and generous of Comrade Finerty," said Commander Green, "to give up the original date, changing it to May 7 because we are running a rodeo starting May 15. We appreciate the consideration and I am sure all the vets who can will attend the bouts out of recognition."

The V. F. W. rodeo will begin May 15 and run for four days, the final performance being scheduled for Saturday night, May 18. Expectations are that it will be a big drawing attraction and help swell the coffers of the veterans' organization.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

CLAUDE E. JACOBSON

New York, May 1 (AP)—The stock market got a fairly good hold on recovery today and pulled itself higher along with leading commodities.

Advances in prominent shares ranged from small fractions to a point or so and were well distributed over the list.

The best showing was made by individual shares favored by current or prospective news developments. Among the leaders were Phillips Petroleum, J. I. Case, Douglas Aircraft, Johns-Manville, Westinghouse, Bethlehem Steel, Santa Fe, Delaware & Hudson, Pullman, Consolidated Gas, Public Service of New Jersey, Deere, Caterpillar Tractor, United Aircraft, Kennecott and Anaconda.

New York City traction shares were brought in substantial volume at 1 to 2 points net higher on reported progress in unification plans. Chrysler and other motor shares were restrained by the labor situation in the motor car industry, but held up well. Mining shares showed no alarm at the further cut in bar silver.

Postoffices Watch Sweepstakes Tickets

Washington, May 1 (AP)—A close watch was maintained today by the postoffice department to ascertain if 463 persons and firms, in Canada, Cuba and the Irish Free State, to whom use of the United States mail has been barred, attempt to sell lottery and sweepstakes tickets in this country under new names.

A fraud order against them, the largest ever issued by the post office department, was made public yesterday. It means any mail and money orders addressed to them will be returned to the sender.

The order named 355 persons in Canada and 27 each in Cuba and the Irish Free State. In addition postmasters were directed to stop any mail addressed to three post office boxes in Ottawa, Canada, the names of the holders of which were not known.

The order lent impetus to the drive by the department to prevent tickets for the Canadian and Irish Hospital Sweepstakes and the Cuban lottery from reaching agents in this country. Department officials, revealing some of the tricks being used to get tickets to destinations in this country, said the Irish sweepstakes operators sought to get tickets through by wrapping them in newspapers mailed as second class matter and also by mailing letters from England, France and other countries.

Canadian operators were reported recently to have resorted to the use of airplanes to get their tickets into the more populated sections of the United States.

Neuman Loses Board And Lodging Action

A verdict of no cause of action was returned Tuesday in the action for board and lodging by Joseph Neuman against Solomon Uhteroff.

This morning Judge Tracy convened county court in order to take the verdict of the jury in an action for negligence brought by Daniel H. Kurtz against Louis J. Dunne. Plaintiff alleged damages from a collision with the Dunne car on route 9-W. Mr. Dunne was en route one night from his home to his job on the Mid-Hudson Bridge at Poughkeepsie. The night was very foggy and to this he attributes the accident. At the opening of court a verdict of no cause of action was returned. A. W. Lent appeared for plaintiff and Arthur B. Ewig appeared for the defendant. Mr. Lent moved to set aside the verdict and the motion was denied by the court.

All jurors were excused for the term and Judge Tracy adjourned court to chambers.

Over 200 Attending Regional Meeting of Social Workers Here

The third annual regional meeting of Area 12 of the New York State Conference of Social Work is being held at the court house today, with an attendance that more than taxed the capacity of the court room. Considerably over 200 delegates had registered before noon today and at the morning session seats were filled and many were forced to stand.

Area 12 comprises seven counties—Dutchess, Orange, Putnam, Rockland, Sullivan, Ulster and Westchester—and delegates were present from all of these counties.

The New York State Conference on Social Work has offices at 2309 State Office Building, Albany. Mrs. Mary B. Holsinger being the executive secretary.

Mrs. Charlotte Tappen is chairman of the local reception committee and Mrs. Harry T. Van Wagenen heads the ticket committee.

The conference committee for Ulster county is composed of Mrs. Mary C. Doremus, W. W. McElhorne, Mrs. M. G. O'Brien. Committees for the other counties in the Area are: Dutchess—Miss Charlotte Cowles, Miss Helen Schantz, Miss Katherine H. Wolfe; Orange—Mrs. Ernest R. Adee, Mrs. William F. Casady; Putnam—The Rev. Murray H. Gardner, Miss Helen R. Locke, the Hon. Alpha R. Whitton; Rockland—Miss Gladys Mendum; Sullivan—Ennis Mott, Mrs. Luther C. Payne, Miss Bertha Van Dier; Westchester—Miss Virginia Barrett, Miss Helen S. Elting, Miss Julia V. Grandin.

The conference opened at 10:30 this morning, when the visitors were cordially welcomed to Kingston by Mayor Conrad J. Heiselman.

The general topic for the morning session was "Community Resources for the Teen Age Group," and the first speaker was Charles L. Mosher, director of the attendance division, State Education Department.

He was followed by Bernard D. Joy, director of 4-H Club work in Ulster county. Mr. Joy presented the 4-H Clubs as a resource for rural youth. He stressed the organization of 4-H clubs in cooperation with the rural schools, thus reaching all classes and making the 4-H Clubs differ from some organizations which appeared only to a select few and whose activities and influence were thereby limited. He told of the work being done by the boys and girls of the 4-H Clubs, the real interest they took in the various club activities and the practical value of the projects engaged in, outside of their value, as a means of entertainment and social life.

Prof. Robert A. Polson, of the agricultural extension service, Cornell University, spoke on "Recreation Facilities," and Miss Agnes C. Sullivan, examiner for the state division of prohibition, told about "Prevention of Delinquency."

The delegates met for lunch at one o'clock at the Stuyvesant Hotel. Dr. Leo J. Palmer, superintendent of the Walkhill Prison, presided and the invocation was by the Rev. Clarence E. Brown, pastor of the Wurts Street Baptist Church. The speaker at the luncheon was Frederick A. Moran, director of the state division of parole, Albany.

The afternoon program was to open at 3 o'clock, with a number of discussion groups, as follows: "Constructive Use of Leisure Time." Leader, Prof. Robert A. Polson, Cornell University.

"Health Service in Rural Areas." Leader, Dr. Frank W. Laidlaw, district health officer, Middletown.

"Old Age Security." Leader, Richard W. Wallace, assistant commissioner State Department Social Welfare.

"Family Service." Speaker, John P. Sanderson, general secretary Family Welfare Society, Rochester.

These were followed by three discussion groups:

For those from cities having a private family agency. Leader, Miss Madeleine Lay, Brooklyn Bureau of Charities.

For those from cities having no private family agency. Leader, Thomas L. Cotton, divisional director, TERA, Albany.

For those from rural areas. Leader, Mrs. Anna C. Haskins Reeder, special representative TERA, Poughkeepsie.

The following program has been arranged for a dinner to be held at the Stuyvesant Hotel at 5:30 p. m. Judge Joseph M. Fowler, presiding.

Invocation by the Rev. John J. Stanley, pastor St. Mary's Church.

"The Federal Security Program." Glenn E. Jackson, assistant director TERA, New York City.

"How This Proposed Program May Affect New York State."

(a) "Old Age Security." Richard W. Wallace, State Department of Social Welfare.

(b) Mrs. Ruth N. McCann, State Department of Social Welfare.

(c) "Public Health Program." Dr. Frank W. Laidlaw, district health officer, Middletown.

ORANGE COUNTY PASTOR ENROLLS AS AN OBJECTOR

The Rev. George Marchia Stockdale, pastor of the Montgomery Methodist and Baptist churches, has registered in the Orange county clerk's office as a conscientious objector to war, the first in Orange county and possibly the first in state or nation to make formal notice on the government that he would not bear arms against a enemy. With this declaration he filed a lengthy statement explaining his action. Information that such registration was possible was made at a meeting two weeks ago by a speaker at the Orange County League of Women Voters. County Clerk Charles E. Dushberry called in county Attorney Perry V. D. Goff for advice on the legal aspects of the registration and the two to be charged. It cost Mr. Stockdale 25 cents to sign his name and file his statement.

The petitioners are Holley Cantine and Lewis Fellow of Saugerties, executors.

His son, Holley Rudd Cantine, receives all stock standing in testator's name, in the Martin Cantine Co. and in the Tissue Co. of Saugerties; also $20,000, which may be taken in stock or securities if desired. To the Board of Education of Free School District No. 10, Saugerties, is given a parcel of land on Main street. NEW STEAM ENGINE COMPETES WITH DIESEL

Schenectady, N. Y., May 1 (AP)—A sleek steam locomotive in a yellow jacket stands pulling on a yard track today, ready to challenge the nation's other high speed train in a test that may determine whether steam will continue to rule the rails.

Albany No. 1 the first steam engine to be built streamlined from the ground up, was christened last yesterday in the presence of Governor Herbert H. Lehman and a host of state, national and railroad officials.

In a day or two she will steam westward to take her place in a "railroad laboratory"—a 400-mile stretch between Chicago and St. Paul, Minn.

There she will be matched with two other fast trains, products of the railroads' new drive for speed—the Burlington's light streamlined Zephyr, and the North Western's new "400", so named because it does 400 miles in 400 minutes.

The Albany is to run 110 miles in 230 minutes, with five stops and many slow-downs.

DEAR MOTORISTS:

Just a few lines to let you know that: Turtles, snails, clams and such are protected by a shell. It keeps them safe from harmful things.

Their lives protected well. So motorists, take a little heed. And listen while I tell. Keep your car safe from harm's embrace. Protect with Super Shell.

Hot weather's coming on us soon. It sure might be a hummer. You'd take no chance in the winter time. Why take one in the summer? The crank case and transmission, the differential, too. Drained, flushed, re-filled with Shell-Penn oils.

Means less expense for you. The radiator filled with rust and grease. Needs draining and flushing well. And a general lubrication. Change now with Super Shell. The winter oils are much too light.

For that car of yours in summer. These last two lines have got to rhyme. Or this poem might be a bummer.

But to get down to the plain ole facts. To protect your car real well. Just don't delay, drive in today. Change now to Super Shell.

On country roads and city streets. Along the broad highways. The sign of the shell means protected well.

Sincerely, H. H. Mayes.

FRIDAY, MAY 3—2 P. M.

Y.W.C.A. Auditorium—14 Henry Street

ERB Asks $150,000 To Carry On Work for home and work relief purposes the $150,000.00 which was contemplated in the budget to be raised by the sale of bonds.

Mayor's Letter

Mayor Heiselman is recommending that the appropriation be made by authorizing a bond sale wrote:

The emergency relief bureau has directed a communication to your honorable body, dated April 29, 1935, attaching a report prepared by Ronder & Ronder, Certified Public Accountants, showing the receipts and disbursements of the Emergency Relief Bureau for the first three months of 1935, and requesting that the $150,000.00 contemplated in the 1935 budget now be made available.

You will note from the communication of the Emergency Relief Bureau that while the total relief expenditures were in line with budget estimates the sum of approximately $20,000.00 was expended during this period as the city's share of relief costs in excess of what was contemplated in the budget. This excess was brought about because not as much money was expended for work relief as was planned, and more funds were expended for home relief than was anticipated. Their letter fully explains why this unexpected shift from work to home relief increased the city's share of unemployment relief.

If the present ratio of work and home relief continues, it will mean that the 40 per cent of home relief refunds credited under state law to anticipated revenues will exceed the $63,254.00 set forth in the budget to cover this item. Should home relief expenditures, due to a continued lack of industrial employment or an insufficient work relief program, continue to exceed estimates, additional appropriations will have to be made later in the year, unless the 40 per cent statutory refunds received by the city treasurer are sufficiently in excess of the $63,254.00 anticipated to make it possible to re-appropriate this surplus revenue for home relief purposes. It is impossible to forecast at this time or anticipate relief needs or methods of financing over a period other than the immediate future because of the fact that the final Federal program for work relief has not yet been completed and announced.

Neither is it known at the present time how soon the Federal program will be under way and how widely that program will absorb the employable unemployed in the city of Kingston. The future policy of the state and city, beyond that involved in this recommendation, in financing relief depends upon what and how the Federal work relief program operates.

At your April meeting you authorized the city treasurer to borrow $20,000.00 in anticipation of relief funds. These notes become due May 17 and will be paid on that date out of refunds received from the state. This loan did not increase the relief appropriation but was simply made in anticipation of funds due us and not received.

An emergency still exists in the City of Kingston and it has existed for some years. In order to provide funds for work relief and home relief, I recommend that your honorable body, in compliance with the request of the Emergency Bureau, authorize the issuance of $150,000.00 in bonds, and that the proceeds thereof be appropriated to the Emergency Relief Bureau for home and work relief purposes. The issuance of these bonds simply carries out the program that we planned at the beginning of the year, which you approved at that time, and which is explained in my annual message as follows:

"The Emergency Relief Bureau have, therefore estimated that the total relief cost in this city for the year 1935 will be approximately $743,000.00. Of this amount, the city's share will amount to $261,658.16, of which credit is taken in anticipated revenues amounting to $63,254.00, which represents the 40 per cent statutory refunds on Home Relief estimated expenditures. Of this $261,658.16, there has been placed in the budget $111,658.16. The balance, or $150,000.00, must be raised by bond issue. The cost of relief has been allocated on this basis in order to insure that when the administration ends on December 31, 1935, the debt of the city will not have increased over what it was when this administration began on January 1, 1934."

Inasmuch as it will take some time for the city treasurer to advertise and sell bonds as authorized by your honorable body, and inasmuch as the Emergency Relief Bureau is out of funds at this time, I also recommend that your honorable body authorize the borrowing of $75,000.00 in short term certificates of indebtedness to be issued in anticipation of the bond issue, said certificates of indebtedness to be paid out of the proceeds of the sale of bonds as soon as the bonds are sold.

Very truly yours,
C. J. HEISELMAN, Mayor.

IN THE REIGN OF GEORGE V

15. A Royal Commander

King George's interest in the British army and navy has been unflagging in the 25 years of his reign, now being celebrated. It was reported once that he silenced criticism of his favor for the services with: "They are the supporters of my throne. I cannot recognize it too fully." This picture is of the king and queen at Aldershot with anti-aircraft battery officers.

The World of STAMPS

By QUINTON JAMES.

In honor of "the protagonist of the Hungarian independence movement" of the early eighteenth century, Hungary is paying stamp tributes to Franz Rakoczy on the bi-centenary of his death.

The stamps, all of a uniform design, have the portrait of Rakoczy. In three denominations: 10 filler green, 15 purple, 20 red, 32 red brown and 46 blue.

Rakoczy, known as Francis II, started an active campaign against the Austrian emperor in 1705, conquering all of Hungary up to the Danube, but later his army was routed. Fourth in a line of Transylvanian princes, he continued his efforts for Hungarian independence until 1711 when he left his country upon refusing amnesty and went to France to live. Finally entering the Carmelite order, he died in Turkey in 1735, and in 1807 his body was moved to Hungary at the expense of the state.

Belgian Semi-Postals

Inscribed in both French and Flemish, "Four Lilies" and "Four Beloved," three semi-postage stamps from Belgium bear the portraits of three children of the royal household in keeping with the purpose of the issue, "for the child."

Actually, the surtax will go to the Belgian national relief committee under the queen's patronage. The stamps are about the size of 1 U. S. cent, and are being sold in a special delivery, with the heads of the three children, closely grouped, placed within a decorative frame.

Values are 25 centimes green, 15c green, 10c plus 20c, and brown, and 1.75 francs plus 50c dark blue. The nomenclature style of printing is con-played. The stamps are to continue on sale until the end of September.

Luxembourg Specials

Announcement has been made on behalf of the government of Luxembourg that a special charity issue is being prepared, to be sold at double face value in collaboration with the international committee to secure employment for refugee professional workers.

Advance notice of the designs shows that various scenes from professional life will form the motifs. The 15 values, all but one design being placed on two denominations, use three illustrations: 5 centimes and 10 francs, male school teacher and his class; 10c and 2 francs, sculptor and painter at work; 15c and 2 francs, newspaper editor; 20c and 1.75 francs, bridge construction; 25c and 1.25 francs, chemist; 50c and 3 francs, an attorney; 1 and 20 francs, group of surgeons; while the remaining values, that of 70c, has a Luxembourg scene.

The stamps are to be inscribed with the name of the country across the top, with "International Relief of Intellectuals" at the bottom.

World Notes

The annual compilation of stamps issued throughout the world, the information for which is gathered by Kent S. Stiles of New York, shows a slight drop in the total for 1934 over 1933. Last year the figure was 14,607 while in 1933 it was 14,831. The year 1930 continues to hold the record, that twelfth-month tallying 15,323.

Love's Old $weet $ong or, Is It Goodby To Heart Balm?

Last of a Series.

4. Lost Love Worthless
By SIGRID ARNE
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

The woman who tries to get money when she can't have the man she expected to marry is slightly amusing to Dr. H. M. Johnson, professor of psychology in the graduate school of American university here.

He says she wants money for something which has no real value.

Dr. Johnson is well-known in his profession for the detailed study of sleep which he has been making the last 10 years. It is a more complicated subject than "heart balm" legislation.

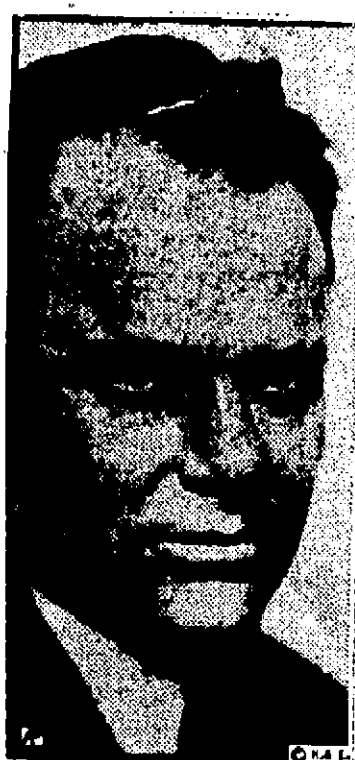

He protests that everyone must understand the broken heart which goes into court. But he grins, lights a pipe, settles in a study chair, and outlines the situation:

'Suit Infera Value'

"If a man falls out of love with a girl to whom he is engaged, the girl may as well put it down as a loss, and find some one else. There are disappointments in life, you know, and we should be prepared for them."

"If the girl sues for money she is saying in effect that the marriage relationship with the man still has some value for her. How? He no longer loves her."

"If it is a case where the parents of the man alienate his affections, the girl has lost nothing again. That man is tied to his parents."

Dr. H. M. Johnson, psychologist, sees heart balm suits as an amusing paradox in which a woman seeks money for something that suddenly has lost value.

"If it is a wife suing another woman for alienating her husband's affections, then the case should be viewed as a business partnership which is breaking up. But she should get some financial aid to help her until she readjusts herself as a worker."

"Too often the person who loses the affections of the loved one is suffering from hurt pride as much as from anything else. They want to 'hurt back', so they file suit for breach of promise or for alienation of affections."

"The suit is a form of revenge, and revenge is harmful. While it burns itself out the person suffering from it is little good for anything else right at a period when he should be readjusting himself to new conditions."

"I'd advise her or him to get some regular meals, some regular sleep, and to hunt new friends."

Different in Other Days

"Heart balm legislation probably originated when the marriage relation was regarded more sordidly than it is now. The girl was disappointed in her expectations. She demanded remuneration. The attitude points to the importance the girl placed on the economic advantage which would come to her through marriage."

"There is something funny anyway about most people who fall in love. They seem to have a pattern which the other person must meet. Of course, the other person doesn't fit the pattern, but the pattern-maker is always just as surprised about the five-hundredth time he discovers the fact as he was the first. Such patterns should be modified, and many emotional problems would be stopped before they start."

Y. M. C. A. Financial Drive Closes With Total of $9,220.75

Rivalry and competition between the "Seneca" and Mohawk" divisions reached a new "high" last evening in the closing meeting of the local Y. M. C. A.'s Indian Drive which closed with a total of $9,220.75 from a total of 981 subscriptions.

"Senecas" with Herb Myers and Emil Boessneck as chiefs, walked or rather ran away with all honors and received the hearty plaudits of the various other teams. They took in during the day a total of $238.75 from 82 subscriptions. W. J. Kent of Team 13, walked away with individual honors for the year, receiving a total of 24 pledges and $91. His team, No. 13, won team honors by turning in 39 pledges for a total of $139. Thus Mr. Kent becomes "Leading Runner," "Leading Tribesman" and his team becomes "Hot-footed Team" and the "Winning Team" for the year.

Eight new "Bucks" were installed and invested with their white feather as an insignia of their achievement of securing more than $50 during the campaign by "Big Chief" Dumm. They were Dwight McEntee, Sr., A. L. Vescate, W. T. Tremper, S. J. Mewinger, Jr., Samuel H. Peyer, Ralph Miller, W. W. Brady and J. A. Simpson. Four new "Warriors" were also invested with their red feather, taking in a total of over $100. They were Warren Smith, Ira V. D. Warren, Chester A. Baltz and Byron Stevens. The invocation was pronounced by the Rev. J. N. Armstrong, pastor of Rondout Presbyterian Church.

"Big Chief" Dumm before calling upon the divisions for their reports reminded the men that this was scheduled as a "Victory Dinner" and that while it might not be a victory dinner with the entire $15,000 raised, nevertheless to those who had signed the "Workers' Enrollment Agreement" and had faithfully tried to secure pledges, had attended the report meetings, and had done their best to reach the scheduled amount it would be at least a personal "victory dinner." He then called upon the men for their reports:

They were as follows:

After the reports were all given and the amounts chalked up, Chief Dumm called upon the Tribal chiefs for final farewells, and all responded congratulating the Senecas and thanking their captains and workers for their fine efforts on behalf of the Y.

C. S. Treadwell then spoke and suggested a rising vote of thanks to E. LeFevre and C. S. Rowland who had done such excellent work upon the Initial Gift Committee. This was given with a hearty three cheers.

Mr. Rowland, the president of the Association, then spoke briefly and he too thanked heartily the workers for their efforts, and expressed the thanks of the Association and its directors to the following persons and organizations:

Mrs. D. N. Secore and her staff of ladies who had an easy job preparing and serving the dinners for the report meetings each night.

The ministers of Kingston and vicinity who have so heartily cooperated with the campaign and have done their best to make it the success it was.

Children a Key to Tuberculosis Control

Life may begin at 40 in song and story but the tuberculosis problem begins during school days or even earlier.

That is why, in recent years, vastly more attention has been given by health workers to the childhood period, in the fight against tuberculosis. There has been a wide extension in the use of the tuberculin test as the most satisfactory method for discovering tuberculosis among children. An X-ray examination of those who react positively to the test furnishes more exact information about the infection and helps to determine whether special care or medical supervision is needed in each individual case.

The value of the tuberculin test and X-ray will be emphasized and their use extended by means of the 1935 educational campaign of the National Tuberculosis Association. The slogan is "Fight Tuberculosis with Modern Weapons." The effort will be carried on throughout the country by the affiliated tuberculosis association in cooperation with physicians and civic and welfare agencies, particularly Parent-Teacher Associations and women's clubs.

Emphasis on treatment naturally follows the educational campaigns of the tuberculosis associations in recent years when considerable attention was devoted to the diagnosis of tuberculosis. Case finding is largely an empty gesture without case care. An individual problem is faced for every child with infection whether of the childhood type or adult type.

The tuberculin test definitely answers the question whether tuberculosis germs are in the child's body. This test, first used by Robert Koch, is harmless. It has been approved by state and city health departments, by scientific medical organizations and the White House Conference on Child Health and Protection. The test is so important as a further tuberculosis control measure that it is given routinely in some schools as part of the regular physical examination of school children.

An X-ray study of the lung is highly desirable in every case where the tuberculin test is positive. If this shows any damage a search should be made to ascertain if the child is exposed to an open case of tuberculosis. This may reveal a member of the child's family or a playmate as the "spreader."

Progress in further control of tuberculosis will be largely measured by the recognition given by parents and people generally to the problem of effectively controlling the spread of infection.

Attractive leaflets being made available explain clearly the main aspects of treating tuberculosis. The poster placed in the schools by the Ulster County Committee on Tuberculosis and Public Health suggests that medical science is a moving, living enterprise in step with the times. This article is published in the interest of the Early Diagnosis Campaign now being conducted throughout the United States by the affiliated tuberculosis associations.

He said the poem about him was written only in fun and that his real greatness was in pitching. (Associated Press Photo)

Motor Car Industry's Higher Sales Reflected in Road Travel Volume

Motor travel in New York, New England and Pennsylvania is showing a sharp increase over travel during the same period last year, according to George A. Perryman, executive of the Frisco-Vacuum Oil Company who uses the inquiries of the company's Touring Bureau as a key to motor travel volume.

He says that the inquiries received by the bureau are a direct reflection of the motor vehicle production statistics for the first quarter of the year, which saw the largest since 1929. Production of motor cars during the first quarter passed the 1,000,000 mark for the first time in six years. The quarter production figures even exceeded the first quarter production for 1929, a year in which the automobile industry manufactured 4,001,130 vehicles. Only three times in the history of the industry has the motor output been greater than this year: 1929, 1928 and 1924.

Mr. Perryman says that his company has prepared for the largest touring season since 1929. Maps and other information have been supplied to the company's service stations in sufficient quantities to meet the needs of the increased number of motorists on the roads this season.

William H. Craig of Schilling Co. Dead

William H. Craig, president of the Schilling Furniture Company, died Tuesday at his home, 62 Lounsbury Place. He was stricken with illness last Friday and since that time his condition had shown an unfavorable trend.

Fifteen years ago Mr. Craig came to Kingston from Easton, Pa., and organized the Schilling Furniture Company setting up the firm on practical experience he gained making furniture in New York City. The Schilling company made furniture to sell in all parts of the country and employed about 100 men at one time.

Surviving Mr. Craig are his wife, formerly Caroline Knaus; two brothers, Samuel and James of this city, and five sisters, Mrs. Edward Jacoby, Mrs. William Fisher and Mrs. John Kincaid, all of Allentown, Pa.; Mrs. Robert Crosby of Philadelphia and Mrs. Joseph Good, of Hammond, Ind.

Mr. Craig was a member of Hill Grove Lodge, 540, F. & A. M., of Brooklyn, Damascus Commandery, Brooklyn, the Longi Grotto of Brooklyn, Kismet Temple Shrine of Brooklyn, the Kingston Shriner's Association, Kingston Lodge of Elks and the Kingston Club.

Funeral services will be held at his late home Thursday evening at 8 o'clock. Burial will be at the convenience of the family Friday in Allentown, Pa.

Auto Vehicles Head Asks Bribe Knowledge

Albany, N. Y., April 30.—Appealing for direct submission to him of all circumstances attending each individual case, Charles A. Harnett, commissioner of motor vehicles, yesterday asked for the cooperation of all applicants for licenses to operate motor vehicles who have experienced a demand—or even an intimation—that a gratuity or bribe would aid or make certain the issuance of a license of any kind.

"On many previous occasions", the commissioner said, "I have made this same appeal, and explained to applicants that their help and cooperation is indispensable to my constant effort to eliminate any such situation that may exist. Any applicant for a license who meets with a suggestion or demand that money or other valuable consideration be offered, whether or not the suggestion comes from an employee of the Bureau of Motor Vehicles, should immediately submit a report of all the attending circumstances to me. All such information will be treated as strictly confidential and the author thereof fully protected."

"There is absolutely no need for money, other than the required legal fee, to obtain a motor vehicle license in the state of New York. All application blanks and road test permit forms carry a warning to this effect. Every applicant who will personally report to me every violation or attempted violation of this nature will perform a genuine public service."

Robot Was Big Aid In Record Air Dash

New York, May 1 (AP).—A robot that did 80 per cent of the piloting and its three flesh-and-blood lieutenants have moved the Atlantic and Pacific oceans a half hour closer together in transport flying.

After shaking off the icy clutch of the Continental Divide and sailing for 800 miles above a western dust storm, a (TWA) twin-motored monoplane landed just before dark yesterday at Floyd Bennett Field, breaking the transcontinental transport record of 11 hours, 34 minutes and 16 seconds.

The robot took no bow but its right-hand man, bespectacled D. W. (Tommy) Tomlinson, and Navigator Peter Redpath and Radioman Harold Sneed—all fresh as daisies—were cheered by the 250 persons who had gathered quickly to witness termination of the unannounced flight from Los Angeles.

Tomlinson fished his slide rule from an inner pocket and quickly figured that the 11 hours and five minutes of flying time over the 2,459-mile great circle course meant the ship had averaged 221.8 miles an hour, despite a 50-mile detour on account of weather.

The previous transport record was set February 21 by Leland S. Andrews.

Court of Appeals Sets Coo Death for June 27

Albany, N. Y., May 1 (AP).—The New York Court of Appeals today signed the death warrant for the execution of Mrs. Eva Coo, and set the date for her death in Sing Sing prison as Thursday night, June 27. The order of the court gives Warden Lewis E. Lawes of Sing Sing the discretion to carry out the execution any time within the week beginning Monday, June 24, but as executions are invariably carried out on Thursday nights the order means that Mrs. Coo will walk "the last mile" on the 27th.

The high court yesterday unanimously affirmed the verdict of the lower court in finding Mrs. Coo guilty of murdering Harry Wright, her chore man, for his insurance. The formality of fixing the execution date was simple. The seven judges of the court in a private conference in chambers this morning decided upon the time of execution. Each judge signed the death warrant and it was delivered to William J. Armstrong, clerk of the court.

Armstrong will forward it immediately to Warden Lawes, who is charged with the woman's execution. Executive clemency now is blonde Eva Coo's only hope to escape Sing Sing's electric chair.

Dorothy Winchell to Be Queen of the May

Miss Dorothy Winchell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Winchell, of 38 Washington avenue, blonde and pretty, will don the traditional robes on Friday, May 17, to be queen of the May at the annual festival in the rear of the high school, having been honored by selection at a special senior assembly this morning.

Miss Mildred Shultz, attractive brunette daughter of Mrs. Jane Shultz of Woodstock, tied with Miss Winchell for first honors, receiving the second greatest number of votes, thus becoming maid of honor for the occasion.

The May festival is a traditional occasion, held each spring by students of the high school, and the public turns out in large numbers for the rites. Preparations this year are expected to make the festival better than ever and many are expected to attend.

Dodgers Trim Giants by 12-5 Score Before Frenzied Crowd of 17,000

By EDWARD J. NEIL
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

New York, May 1 (AP).—The Hatfields and McCoys of baseball, Memphis Bill Terry and Gowanus Casey Stengel, may have settled their feud to their own personal satisfaction, but there is no calling off the frenzied faithful of Brooklyn.

It looks as if the boys who buy the pasteboards never are going to forget or forgive the fact that in an unguarded moment over a year ago Terry quipped "are the Dodgers still in the league?"

Even belting the Giants out of last year's pennant hasn't saved the outraged Brooklyn pride.

CASEY STENGEL
The Giants crossed the Brooklyn Bridge and Gowanus Canal yesterday for the first time since the 1934 debacle, and the greeting Terry and his men got from the 17,000 Flatbushers would have warmed the hearts of survivors of the old Giants' feuds with the Chicago Cubs. There must be something to it, because the Dodgers won a ball game as wild as the setting, 12 to 5.

The boys heaved cannon crackers out of the stands, howling with delight as the cardboard bombs burst about Giant trousers. They call them Brooklyn greeting cards. One, as the festivities opened, nearly blew staid Tom Clark off the first base coaching lines.

What with the fireworks and the continual jeering of the enemy and cheering for the homeguards, it sounded like a combination Fourth of July celebration and feeding time at the Zoo.

Terry, the principal target, shook hands with Stengel for photographers by home plate yesterday, and the 17,000 stood and roared in outraged unison.

"Don't shake hands with that bum."

Rumors that "they got one of our guys" spread through the stands when it was discovered that Sam Leslie was too sick to play first base for the Dodgers, but the tension was relieved when Travis Jackson also reported too ill to play for the Giants.

But it was all music to the ears of Terry and Stengel, who can hear through the turmoil of baseball's most rabid fandom the sweet click of the overhauled turnstiles.

"Funny," mused Terry, as a right handed sharpshooter drew a bead on him with a cannon cracker.

There are no enemies on the ball clubs themselves. Even in that last series last fall the Dodgers were pulling for us to win the pennant—and at the same time were beating us every day.

Canzoneri One of Greatest—Gibson Picks Tony to Beat Ambers, May 10

Pickup Chief Worry Of 500-Mile Racers

Indianapolis (AP)—Greater motor acceleration, better weight balance and the perfection of minor parts—these are the worries of race drivers this year as they prepare for the 500-mile automobile classic here May 30.

The day has passed when the really worthwhile cars are lacking in sheer speed, but the engineers have yet to conquer completely the quick pickup problem which develops in each of the four dangerous turns of the two-and-one-half-mile brick course.

Superchargers were the solution for several years. But now they are barred from all but two-cycle and oil-burning speedsters. The conventional race car has a four-cycle motor—the same as used in the passenger automobile.

Although the amount of gasoline allowed each car has been reduced from 45 to 42½ gallons, that is not considered a factor by most drivers. "Wild" Bill Cummings, Indianapolis, used only 35½ gallons last year to win with the record breaking average of 104.863 miles per hour.

As has been the custom for the last two years, only six gallons and two quarts of oil will be permitted each car. In 1933 some of the speedsters barely got by on that amount, but a year ago it was no problem.

The cars will be better balanced for this year's race, drivers and mechanics say.

Transmissions, radiator caps, gasoline tanks and other gadgets are being subjected to unusual attention this spring. Broken strings, timers and the like have put many a driver out of the competition in the past.

Mechanical details are unchanged from last year. A car is limited to a maximum piston displacement of 366 cubic inches; it must weigh at least 1,950 pounds; no more than four valves to the cylinder will be permitted, and there is a limit of one carburetor to each two cylinders.

As usual, a mechanic must ride with each driver.

Although three of Canada's sea fisheries provinces reported increased catches in February, returns from the Dominion's sea fisheries on the whole were smaller than in February, 1934.

"Consider Tony Canzoneri one of the greatest little fighting men of all time," is the opinion voiced by Billy Gibson, veteran handler and manager of two world champions, Benny Leonard and Gene Tunney. He adds:

"He belongs with the McGovern, Dizon, Attella, Johnny Dundee of another era. I have seen Tony in most of his important battles and all will agree with me that he always gives the customers a run for their money. Thrice champion and a good one as boss of the feather, junior welter and lightweight divisions, I look for him to retrieve his 135-pound laurels after he squares off against Lew Ambers, at Madison Square Garden, May 10."

Gibson also places the curly-haired little Italian on a par with Leonard. "True, Benny will go down in history as a remarkable champion, but I have no hesitancy stating Tony is just as good as Benny. He is almost as clever and can punch as hard as Leonard. As a ring general he is on a par with Benny."

"Like a great many others I thought Tony deserved the decision in the return bout with Barney Ross. You'll remember that near the end of the fracas Tony came within the proverbial eyelash of stopping the Chicagoan. His easiest fight I thought was against Al Singer whom he knocked out in 1:06 of the first of fifteen scheduled rounds. The victory crowned him lightweight king."

I saw him come from behind in many fights to grab the decision. He has the heart of a lion. Almost from the beginning of his great career Tony proved a soldier under fire. He's been in there taking and giving it over a stretch of ten years, and today he is just as good as he ever was. A truly remarkable pugilist. It'll be a long time before we see his equal. Ambers is a good fighter, too. He is young and likes to fight but I believe Tony's superior fighting qualities will overwhelm his speed for punching. Fifteen rounds is a long way to go but it makes no difference with Tony. He is a strong boy. His stamina is one of the things I marvel at. If Ambers, whom I saw lick Harry Dubinsky Sammy Fuller, turns Tony back then I'll be the first to congratulate him."

Al Weill, advisor to Ambers, bobbed up with a long statement yesterday blasting the Chicago Boxing Commission's dictum that it will not recognize the winner as the new champion. "Didn't Ambers lick their number 1 challenger, Mr. Sammy Fuller? They're all wet," he said.

The STANDINGS

(By The Associated Press.)
Three in a Row for Detroit.

That surprising early season slump of the Detroit Tigers, champions of the American League, is beginning to yield to baseball's infallible treatment—heavy hitting, tight fielding and effective pitching. Mickey Cochrane's Bengals, after dropping nine of their first 11 games, have won three games in a row, sweeping along in much the same steam-roller fashion they did a year ago.

A faltering pitching staff suddenly has regained form with Joe Sullivan, Tommy Bridges and Alvin Crowder starting and finishing the Tigers' last three engagements; the team has played errorless ball in that span, and the batters have scored 34 runs on 41 hits, 14 of them for extra bases.

This compares with the Tigers' record of 36 runs on 91 hits, 22 for extra bases, in their first 11 games. The hapless St. Louis Browns once again felt the weight of the Tigers' bats yesterday as Detroit punched out 14 hits and won, breeding, 11 to 3.

Goose Goslin's second homer in as many days in the fourth gave the Tigers a 2-2 lead and they went on to clinch the verdict with a six-run drive in the seventh. Crowder was nicked for nine hits, including a triple and three doubles, but was effective in the pinches. The defeat was the Browns' eighth in succession and dropped them into a tie with the Philadelphia Athletics for last place.

Sixth for Yankees.
Meanwhile in New York, the Yankees chalked up their sixth triumph in a row, rallying for two runs in the ninth to nose out the Washington Senators, 9-8. Bill Dickey's single drove Bob Rolfe home with the winning run.

Johnny Broaca held the Senators to three hits in the first six innings but was tagged for two runs in the seventh and then retired in the midst of a six-run outburst in the eighth when Alvin Powell clouted a home run with two on. Dickey and Tony Lazzeri contributed homers to the Yankee cause.

Rain and cold weather held other American League Clubs idle.

Dodgers Trim Giants.

In the National League, the year's first clash between the New York Giants and Brooklyn Dodgers saw the Dodgers and Bill Clark stagger through to a 12-5 victory in a wild game marked by 25 hits and seven errors. Triples by Buzz Boyle and Danny Taylor, singles by Louie Frey, Jim Bucher and Tony Cuccinello and errors by Dick Bartell and George Harris accounted for six Dodgers runs in the third and really decided the ball game. The defeat left the Giants in first place eight percentage points ahead of the Dodgers although Brooklyn leads on a "canon" basis by half a game.

The Chicago Cubs pulled closer to the leaders by beating Pittsburgh, 2-0, with Roy Henshaw easily out-pitching Ralph Birkholder in a couple of pitching strategies. Gene Schott throttled the St. Louis Cardinals between, permitting only five hits, and the Cincinnati Reds climbed out a 12-2 victory to regain fourth place. Rain forested postponement of the Philadelphia Phillies game.

Girl Plays First Base For High School Team

Likes the Game but Thinks Major League Chances Are Slim Because She's a Girl—Draws 1,500 Where Only 500 Formerly Turned Out.

Webster, Mass., May 1 (AP)—Babe Ruth may be the greatest drawing card in the major leagues but, as far as comparisons go, he is just another ball player when one considers the crowd appeal of 15-year-old Nellie Twardzik, the second string first baseman of this town's otherwise male Bartlett High School team.

Until Nellie made the squad, Bartlett's baseball teams performed before crowds of 300 or less. This year, much to the delight of the school's faculty manager, the nine has been drawing throngs of from 1500 up, an increase of about 500 per cent.

Since she is only a sophomore and, as such, a rookie in interscholastic baseball, Nellie's coach puts her in the lineup only when the team has a safe lead. This precaution is not appreciated by the crowd, if the gathering at yesterday's game with Oxford High, is any criterion.

Nellie's admirers chanted for her as the first ball was pitched. When she entered the game in the fourth inning, with the score standing 6-1 in Bartlett's favor, she received the ovation Ruth gets when he belts one out of the park.

Bartlett finally won out, 12-5, and Nellie's contributions to the victory, a smashing single out of two tries and a sensational glove-hand catch of a wild throw that choked off a determined Oxford rally.

When attired in the regulation baseball uniform, the boyishly figured Nellie appears and acts just like her masculine teammates. It is only when she takes her turn at bat that spectators see the only distinguishing mark of her sex, the long hair under her tight-fitting cap.

Nellie, who gave up dolls to play baseball in her childhood days, frowns on baseball's double standards.

"I don't know if I will ever be able to play well enough for a major league team," she says, "but if I ever do, I suppose my being a girl will stand in the way. Golf and tennis and lots of other sports have women professionals and I see no reason why baseball shouldn't."

Blanton, Who Blanked Cards, Is Even Better Under Lights

New York (AP)—When the national League voted last winter to introduce night baseball to the major leagues for the first time, it practically assured Darrell "Cy" Blanton, brilliant young right hander of the Pittsburgh Pirates, a place in the major leagues.

The 28-year-old speedball artist came up to the big show with a brilliant record under the arc but with only mediocre success under natural light. Blanton, however, in his first start shut out the world champion St. Louis Cardinals with one hit and proved he has something without the aid of calcium glare.

He was almost equally impressive in his second start, stopping Cincinnati with six hits and walking 11. For several of a deceptive drop curve and a world of speed. Blanton has been practically unshakable under the shadows of artificially lighted parks. With St. Joseph in the Western league in 1922 he posted 21 victories against 7 defeats, striking out 281 batters in 256 innings as he led the Saints to the championship.

Moving up to faster company in the International League in 1924 Blanton won 11 against 4 defeats with the fourth place Albany Senators. A resume of some of the games he pitched last year produced some startling facts.

Chance Sun Won't Start In the Kentucky Derby

Louisville, Ky., May 1 (AP)—Joseph E. Widener's Chance Sun headed back for the bluegrass today, all hopes that he might start in the Kentucky Derby gone glimmering.

He but pointed the way for a handful of derby hopefuls which failed to show the necessary stuff in yesterday's preparation purse at Churchill Downs. The event, a mile for $1,500 went to the Milky Way Farm's Whiskolo, which is not too highly regarded despite his victory.

Widener announced at Lexington, Ky., last night that Chance Sun definitely will not start. After in-and-out workouts last week the colt disappointed in his start Saturday.

Third to Warren Wright's filly Nellie Flag and Mrs. R. B. Fairbanks' Bluebeard, he topped from his position as winter book favorite.

The odds of four, five and six to one which had been accepted on his chances all winter rose to twenty.

Examination failed to bear out that Chance Sun was lame, but after returning to Widener's Elmendorf farm today he will be taken to Col. E. R. Bradley's late four farm for treatment. This may not start again until late in the year.

Among the others which disappointed in the preparation was Hal Price Headley's Whopper, which tired badly in the stretch and was third to Whiskolo and Teatout, the only horse in the race not eligible for the Derby.

10 Per Cent of Field Has Open Golf Chance

New York, May 1 (AP)—For almost 90 per cent of the players entered in the 1935 National Open Golf Championship, the sectional qualifying trials on May 13 will be "just another two rounds of golf."

Although the United States Golf Association has raised the qualifying quota for this year's championship to be played at Oakmont, Pa., in June, from 150 to 162, exemptions leave only about 10 per cent of the entrants with a chance to qualify.

The sectional districts were increased from 22 to 25. The total entry of 1,127 is considerably larger than last year's 1,059 and the third largest since sectional qualification was instituted in 1924.

The exempt players include 33 of the first 34 low-scorers in the 1934 open, six Japanese professionals and one South African amateur shot-maker, William Lawson Little, Jr., failed to claim exemption since he will defend his British amateur crown in England this month and plans to stay there for the British open in June.

The free tickets to the championship proper, scheduled for June 6, 7, and 8, leave 1,087 golfers to battle for 122 places on 25 fronts. The Chicago district, with 135 entrants, was allotted the greatest number of places, 14. New York was second with 120 players for 13 places and Pittsburgh third with 111 for 11.

The metropolitan district test at Baltusrol, Short Hills, N. J., selected for the 1935 open, will end Craig Wood, who was disqualified from last year's tournament at Merion, and Johnny Farrell, a former champion, among the 13 competitors.

Some Old Pipes in Organs
The proportions of tin, zinc and lead in the different alloys made specially for the various pipes of the Sweet organ substantially are the same as have been used for pipes of similar tone characteristic by the master organ builders for more than two centuries, just as the formulae for alloys to produce the sweetest toned bells have remained virtually unchanged for over four centuries.

St. Brendan's Laid
St. Brendan's late was supposed to have existed southeast of the Canary Islands. It was said to have been discovered by the Irish monk, St. Brendan, and 25 brother monks in the sixth century, after seven years spent in search of the lost of the saints. Each of the various geographers gives it a different location. The legend had more influence on the discovery of America.

Cause of Earthquakes
Earthquakes are caused by a sudden breaking or slipping of rock strata. The earth's crust is subjected to gravitational stresses by the sun and moon.

The housewife no longer is enslaved by her household duties. She has found a delightful substitute for much of her hard work. The house is cheerfully lighted and made cozy by electricity. The electric range has in many instances taken the place of the old wood stove in the kitchen. Gone is the smoky ice box, and in its stead is the sanitary and economical electric refrigerator. The broom has made way for the electric vacuum cleaner. Washing and ironing have become greatly simplified through devices and there are dozens of other modern appliances at hand to lighten the life in the home.

Electricity is utilized to prepare much of the breakfast—the eggs, the toast and the coffee—and it takes care of the dishes after meals. Even the radio has come to add to the pleasure and happiness of the house.

The tennis season is well under way as an important feature of Kingston High School's spring sports program, and has attracted a large field of candidates for positions on the varsity squad. Most of the first round in the elimination tourney to select the squad has been completed, a series of matches having been played on Fowler's court.

A few of the players who have varsity experience or show unusual ability have been placed in a seeded group. In the two matches played by the seeded players, Knute Beichert trimmed Bill Fessenden, 7-5, 6-2, while Relyea Hasbrouck downed George Burger, 8-6, 6-2. Louis Nekos is also scheduled to meet Jerome Selgel in a match within the seeded group. The majority of the team will probably be composed of the members of this group, with Fessenden and Beichert, two of last year's varsity racket-wielders, forming the mainstay of the squad.

The remainder of the positions will be filled by the winners in the open class. First round results reported so far in this group are as follows: J. Alamy defeated B. Wince 2-6, 6-2, 6-4.

B. Van Gansbeek defeated H. France, 6-3, 6-3, 6-3.

R. Everett defeated R. Connolly, 6-3, 7-5.

J. Harder defeated W. Newkirk, forfeit.

W. Whittier defeated A. Wood, forfeit.

John Decker defeated James Decker, 6-1, 6-2.

R. Van Buren defeated L. Wisniewski, forfeit.

A. Jones defeated H. Kachigian, 6-2, 6-2.

V. Stock defeated V. Kelly, forfeit.

H. Canfield defeated B. Shattin, 6-3, 6-4.

R. Eastman defeated H. Williams, forfeit.

P. Weiss defeated M. Len, forfeit.

F. Holcomb defeated S. Ennis, 6-2, 7-9, 7-5.

The first scheduled varsity match will be with Bard College, formerly St. Stephen's College, of Annandale, which will be played at Bard on Thursday, May 9. Reitra Ransbrouck is acting as manager, and booking games, while Knute Beichert is captaining the squad.

Oratorio "Elijah" Presented Tuesday

So much is praise-worthy and knightly, musically encouraging and touched by a beautiful sentiment in the presentation of Mendel-sohn's oratorio of "Elijah" as given at the Fair Street Reformed Church on Tuesday evening by the Kingston Choristers of the Y. W. C. A. and the men who assisted, together with the organist and pianist, all under the direction of Harry P. Dodge, that it is hard to know where to begin talking about it all.
It was a matter of thanksgiving that this chorus of young women of our city as organized by the Y. W.
C. A., where there are so many particularly good voices, has been studying a really great musical masterpiece such as the "Elijah."
It was good and as it should be to see Harry P. Dodge, with baton in hand conducting a work that he is so capable of conducting with genuine artistry.
Again it was a matter of pride and congratulation to those present who were most deeply interested in the development of the best in music in our community to note how many exceptionally good voices we have among our younger musicians whose owners are taking their music seriously enough to devote time and effort, talent and serious thought to a work of the character of this oratorio.
And in addition to all this, the many singers who had been devoted pupils of Lillian Miller, Hemstreet sang as though inspired by the memory of their loved "teacher," especially Mrs. Josephine Mortel Dederick, one of Mrs. Hemstreet's first pupils here, who sang "Hear Ye, O Israel," thrillingly, and Mrs. Mills in her three solos.
An outstanding musical achievement of the evening was the organ part played by Mrs. William S. Eltinge, organist of the church, whose back was to the conductor and the soloists, yet whose organ accompaniment was technically very excellent and entirely sympathetic and supporting.

Miss Merrihew also played a very important and praiseworthy part in her fine piano accompanying.

One could have only words of commendation for each and every soloist, Miss Laura Bailey, Mrs. Josephine Mortel Dederick of Sauger-ties, Miss Eva Clinton, Mrs. William MacGregor Mills, Mrs. Clarence
Wolfersteig, Mrs. Neland Fuller,
Messrs. Leonard Stine, William
Rahle, Donald Clarke, Alton Shadr, August Franz and Vernon Miller.

The oratorio was made the more interesting and easier of appreciation, because of the presentation of the narrative of "Elijah" given by the Rev. R. S. Gaenzle before each of the two parts of the work.

The careful and skilled training of Mr. Dodge, who brought to the task the traditions of this great work, having called forth conscientious attendance upon rehearsals, resulted in a presentation of the oratorio as a whole, by a group of singers, singing together in a musical masterpiece for the first time, that cannot be too highly praised. And many a young musician in the audience heard for the first time, inspiring solos and choruses as part of a great musical whole instead of single numbers.

The oratorio was opened with dignity in a recitative, "Elijah," sung by Leonard Stine, followed immediately by a chorus that as well known, "Help, Lord!" The choristers assisted by a fine male chorus sang unusually well under Mr. Dodge's conducting, with clean-cut attacks and releases, so necessary in a work of this character. The pitch was well kept, the diction was particularly good and the shading and interpretation were excellent.

The outstanding solos were "With All Your Hearts" and "O Man of God," by William Rahle; "Elijah,
Get Thee Hence," and "Now Cherish Brook is Dried Up," and "Woe Unto Him," by Mrs. Mills; "Hear Ye, O Israel," Mrs. Deder-ick; "O, Rest in the Lord,"
Miss Clinton; "Lord God of Abraham" and "Call Him Louder," Mr.
Stine; "The Fire Descends from Heaven," Donald Clarke with chorus;
"Is Not His Word Like a Fire?" and
"O Lord, Thou Hast Overthrown," by Alton Shadr; "Then Shall the Righteous Shine Forth," and "See

Now, He Sleepeth," by August Franz;
"It Is Enough," by Vernon Miller.

Perhaps there were no more difficult features of the work for those newly introduced to the oratorio as a form of musical composition than the duets, trios and quartets, all of which were sung so well as to be worthy of special mention:

Duet with chorus, "Bow Down Thine Ear," sung by Miss Bailey and Mrs. Dederick with full chorus; air and duet, "What Have I to Do with Thee," sung by Miss Bailey and Mr.
Stine; the familiar quartet, "Cast
Thy Burden," sung by Miss Bailey, Mrs. Mills, Mr. Rahle and
Mr. Stine; recitative and chorus,
"The Lord Hath Exalted Thee," sung by Vernon Miller and Miss Eva Clinton; recitative, "Man of God," sung by August Franz and Vernon Miller; trio, "Lift Thine Eyes," sung by Mrs. Wolfersteig, Miss Clinton and Mrs. Neland Fuller; recitative, "Arise, Elijah," sung by Miss Clinton and Mr. Miller.

Yet no solo nor small group singing can make complete an oratorio, for the voice of the people in massed tones and showing forth the thoughts and feelings of the many is vitally necessary and usually, as in "Elijah," makes about as great a demand upon the chorus as do the solos and small group parts upon the soloists.

All of the choruses were notable for their ensemble and were well sung, with the more familiar ones being "Help, Lord!" "For He Shall Give His Angels," "As God the Lord," "Baal, We Cry to Thee," (not so familiar, but well interpreted),
"Thanks be to God," "Be Not Afraid" (particularly well sung),
"The Lord Hath Exalted Thee," "He Watching over Israel," (very lovely), and the final chorus, "And Then Shall Your Light."

From the beginning of the recitative, "Elijah," to the final words of the final chorus all went with a smoothness that made for a keener appreciation of the work as a musical unity, and the fact that the oratorio was given in a church, lessening the contributing factor in the excellence of the performance as a whole. Nor does that mean that there was any lack of enthusiastic and appreciative applause at the conclusion of the first part of the final chorus.

It is safe to say that the presentation of "Elijah," by the young singers of the community under Mr.

Dodge's conducting was epoch making musically for our city, and must be given all possible help for future like productions giving the community the opportunity to become familiar with this form of classic musical literature, which not to know is to be found lacking in musical culture of the highest kind. Our education began well last evening.

Scientists Examine Samples of Pastry

Washington, May 1 (AP)—Chemists and bacteriologists of the Federal food and drug administration were examining samples of poisoned pastry from a White Plains, N. Y., bakery today.

Paul B. Dunbar, chief of the administration, revealed that portions of cream puffs which poisoned several hundred residents of Westchester county were being analyzed to determine the nature of the substance and how it found its way into the pastry.

Cultures of bacteria found are being grown and toxins from them will later be injected into laboratory animals. Meanwhile chemical analysis of the pastry filling is also underway.

"Considerable time must elapse before the bacteriological and chemical work is completed," Dunbar explained. "It is impossible to make such tests as are necessary in a few days or a week."

Earlier he had declared he did not believe from the evidence available up to last Friday that spoiled eggs were responsible for the poisoning.
Should ingredients shipped in interstate commerce be found responsible, however, the case will become one necessitating federal action under the pure food and drug act, he added.

No Change in Fees For Drivers of Motor Cars

Albany, N. Y., May 1.—The re-licensing of automobile drivers in this state began today, and application blanks are now available in offices of the Bureau of Motor Vehicles and county clerks. On June 1 every New York state operator and chauffeur must have a 1935-36 driving license, and if it is secured now it may be used in place of licenses which will expire at the close of this month. Charles A.
Hartnett, commissioner of Motor vehicles, urges motorists to get new licenses without delay, using the postal facilities or applying in person at any of the offices of the Bureau of Motor Vehicles.

There is no change in the fee or in the requirements. The relicensing fee for chauffeurs is $2.00 and for operators, fifty cents.

The number of licensed drivers has increased during the last year, and if all are to be supplied with 1935-36 permits before June 1, applications should be made before the closing days of May.
